Davey Shatters Hopes of Doomed Ohio Killer

JONES, WHO WANTED LIFE, DIES TONIGHT

Governor Denies Clemency to Slayer Given Inspiration By 18-Year-Old Girl.

33, IN PRISON 19 YEARS

Electrocution to Reduce Pen's 'Death Row' Population to 12 Convicts.

COLUMBUS—The hopes of Everett Jones who once expressed a desire to die in the electric chair but later made a plea to live when he found inspiration in a Springfield girl who is ready to marry him, were shattered today when Gov. Martin L. Davey denied him executive clemency.

Jones will die in the Ohio penitentiary's electric chair tonight for the holdup murder of Robert Lindsey, Jeffersonville pool hall operator.

No Reason for Clemency.

In refusing executive clemency this morning, Gov. Davey said:

"After due and careful deliberation of all the facts presented at his hearing, the parole board has failed to find any reason why I should extend clemency in his behalf, and have so recommended to me," Davey said.

Ohio penitentiary officials said that Jones, who is scheduled to be electrocuted about 8 p. m., had spent a "good night."

As the electric chair was made ready for Jones, an unprecedented population of 13 men and a woman crowded "death row" beyond its normal capacity.

Death row is eight steel cages. In it are the 13 men. The woman, Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn of Cincinnati, convicted poisoner of an old man, occupies a special cell in another part of the building.

Aid Given Life.

Jones was convicted of killing Lindsey in a holdup last July 4. His companion in the crime, Walter Barnes, 19, pleaded guilty to second degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Jones' attorneys said he tried to save Barnes because of an abnormal affection for the younger prisoner.

Jones, who once wrote a magazine article in which he said he had spent 19 of his 33 years in prison and wanted to die, asserted yesterday that he had found inspiration in an 18-year-old Springfield girl who is ready to marry him.

NO TROUBLES

Ohio Town Has $500,000 In Cash, Thanks to Muny Plants.

MARTINS FERRY — (U.P.) — Mayor Lee Woods of this city of 15,000, hearing the wails of neighboring towns in serious financial straits, looked over the municipal finances today and announced with satisfaction that thanks to the municipal light and water plants Martins Ferry has a cash balance of $500,978.

The mayor did a little figuring and came up with the answer that if stretched, the surplus would provide $33.60 to every resident of the city.

25 Years Ago Today City Was Isolated--It Was Day Of Great Flood of 1913

Industries Were Closed, Gas, Electricity, Telephones and Water Supply Failed; Boats Used to Rescue Residents in Northern Section of the City.

Exactly 25 years ago today Mansfield was without electric lights, power, gas, city water, railway transportation, telephone service, and all manufacturing plants were closed. It was a milestone in Mansfield and Ohio history—the great flood of 1913 from which other events were dated for years afterward.

The entire front page of the Mansfield News on March 25, 1913, was given over to the flood story and the devastation throughout the state. In big black type across the top of the page was the headline: "THE RAINS CAME, THE FLOODS WERE UPON THE FACE OF THE EARTH MIGHTILY."

Mansfield, high on its hills, had felt secure when the first news came on March 24 that Dayton was inundated and that rivers throughout the state were rising to flood heights. But between 4 and 5 p. m. on the 24th, the waters of the Rocky Fork and Touby's Run began to flood the lower sections of Mansfield, especially in the area around the railroad tracks and south to Fifth street.

As night came on, residents on North Mulberry street and West Sixth street began to feel uneasy, as the waters crept up over their yards and toward their doors. And then suddenly, many of them were cut off from escape before they realized what was happening.

Signal With Pistols.

Shortly after midnight, according to the Mansfield News of March 25, people isolated in their homes "began to fire pistols and guns as a signal that help was needed. Police Chief James Feeney, Capt. Herbert McClure and the day and night police, with Safety Director Herman Hornberger and the fire department were on duty throughout the night."

Boats were obtained from the pavilion at North Lake and put into service. Shortly after 3 o'clock that morning the waters reached the power house and electric current over the city was cut off. Telephone service went out later and at 9 o'clock that morning the pumps at the city pumping station were covered with water and residents had to depend upon cistern and well water.

Terrific rains, which were general over the state, started on Sunday, March 23, which was Easter Sunday in 1913.

They continued without abatement Sunday night and Monday, and late Monday afternoon, flood waters began to creep up on the city. It was still raining early Tuesday, and the flood waters were raging.

Water 5 and 6 Feet Deep.

The water was between five and six feet deep in the lower section of the city. Uptown, Walnut, West Fourth and Park avenue were hardest hit, torrential rains filling basements and covering streets as sewers were unable to carry off the water. Business places on the

Mrs. Hahn is the only woman prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary. Her execution date has not been set.

PUSH FIGHT FOR JOINT TVA QUIZ

Administration Leaders Want House Members Included In Senate Probe Group.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The senate today approved a resolution calling for a joint congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders appealed to the senate today to include house members in any committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority.

They predicted overwhelming approval for a carefully-worded resolution in which Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky proposed that five members of each chamber be appointed to hold public hearings on the policies which split the TVA directorate.

Before the vote on Brakley's resolution, the other three senators who have proposed TVA inquiries conferred with him in an attempt to agree on just what the investigation should cover.

They were Senators Norris (Ind-Neb), who first asked for an inquiry by the federal trade commission, and Senators Bridges (R-NH) and King (D-Utah), opponents of TVA who wanted to include in the resolution a long list of accusations against the board members.

Norris insisted the inquiry

DAVEY COMING HERE APRIL 1 FOR DEM RALLY

Governor to Launch District Campaign at Nine-County Meeting at High School.

OPENING PRIMARY GUN

Possibility Davey May Reveal 1938 Plans Here Next Week, But Office Is Silent.

Gov. Martin L. Davey will come to Mansfield next Friday night to launch the Democratic primary campaign in the 17th district at a rally in Senior high school auditorium, E. B. Kallmerten, chairman of the Richland County Democratic Executive committee, announced today.

The governor was invited to speak here by Kallmerten, his close friend and a member of the state committee which is seeking to "draft" Davey for a third term.

Will He Announce?

The possibility was seen by observers that Davey might decide to announce for re-election at the rally here, but his secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, told The News-Journal today he would talk on "State Government." She declined to comment on the possibility of an announcement, when reached by telephone at Columbus.

Democratic leaders from the six counties in the 17th district and Huron, Crawford and Wyandot counties, outside the district, have been invited to the rally, according to Mrs. Mae Lex, secretary of the Richland county executive committee.

Although the governor will be the chief speaker, it is expected that Democratic candidates in the district will speak briefly, Mrs. Lex indicated.

Opening Gun.

The rally will be the Democrats' opening gun in the district primary campaign in which the veteran William A. Ashbrook was the first to announce in the party ranks. A candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination, he has been invited to the April 1 rally in Mansfield, but party leaders expressed doubt that he will be able to get here from Washington.

While it has been expected for several weeks, Gov. Davey's definite announcement that he will run for a third term has not been made. He has distributed no nominating petitions in Richland county, although a number of petitions to "draft" him as a gubernatorial candidate were circulated here last month by state employes in the county.

Petitions for Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, who was defeated for the nomination in 1934, were in the hands of Democratic central committeemen in the county, it was learned today. Sawyer announced several weeks ago that he would seek the nomination at the August primaries.

It had seemed easy to agree with Charlotte Matthieson, his 18-year-old sweetheart, that they should end their lives together. It was harder to explain why he had killed Charlotte and then reneged on their suicide pact.

They had figured it all out. There was no money to get married. Charlotte was to bear a child and death was preferable to disgrace.

And so they made their suicide assignment. Donald wore his new black tie, they stopped at a florist's to buy a corsage for Charlotte and went on to Donald's home.

Council To Hear Water Plea Tonight

C. of C. Delegation Will Ask Immediate Action on Woodland Project.

The Chamber of Commerce, represented by its president, Judge C. H. Huston, and C. L. VanDerau, chairman of the water development committee, will go before city council at a special session tonight with a plea for the immediate financing of the proposed Woodland water development program.

On the grounds that the $75,000 project will serve a two-fold purpose, the delegation will ask council to authorize a financing plan so that work on the project can be started at once.

The special session was called by Mayor Claude M. Hunter for the purpose of "definitely" deciding what part of the proposed city-wide water extension program will be undertaken this summer to provide for work relief.

$11,000 Minimum Assured.

At a meeting with WPA officials in Columbus Wednesday, the mayor said he had assured that group that a minimum of $11,000 would be spent by the city on water lines to provide for additional WPA labor.

C. N. Shultz, chairman of council's water committee, who accompanied the mayor Columbus, will present three different water programs which he outlined to WPA officials.

The minimum project with the city's share set at $11,000 would include several extensions in the distribution system in various parts of the city and would be financed from an appropriation from unappropriated waterworks funds.

A Woodland extension program including a tank tower and a new high capacity main to the mercantile district, designed to bolster the pressure in the Woodland area, with the city's share set at $75,000, also will be considered along with the alternative of proceeding with the same plan by excluding the tank tower which would not provide for WPA labor. This project would call for $55,000 as the city's share.

The Chamber of Commerce delegation will ask council to proceed with a plan for financing the entire Woodland project, contending that it will not only serve to remedy the water pressure problem in that area, but will provide a work relief plan that will keep hundreds off the direct relief rolls.

EUROPE MARKS TIME ON PLAN OF EVACUATION

Hull Asks European Powers, 20 American Nations to Aid Political Outcasts.

BRITAIN SYMPATHETIC

Proposal Would Bring 15,000 of Austria's and Germany's Unwanted to U. S.

BULLETIN

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt said today the American proposal to give asylum to political refugees in Germany and Austria also applied to oppressed minorities in Russia, Spain and Italy and any other country abroad.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The success of Secretary Hull's proposal for evacuating political refugees from Germany and Austria, informed persons agreed today, will depend largely on what restrictions are laid down by the Nazi government.

Germany, they said, has followed the practice of permitting emigrants to take little or no money with them.

This policy has the effect of discouraging the refugees, and also raises the question in other countries of whether to welcome penniless persons.

Wires 29 Nations.

Hull sent telegrams to nine European and 20 American nations yesterday, proposing the setting up of an international committee to facilitate the emigration through financing by private organizations.

The reaction from Germany was awaited with particular keenness since it became evident Hull's proposal had not been communicated to Berlin.

The German embassy said here it had received no advance notification. Attaches declined to comment.

State department officials did not anticipate that Germany would offer much objection to emigration in itself, since most of the refugees would be Jews and therefore unwanted to Nazi states.

Germany's quota under the immigration act of 1924 has been less than half-filled in recent years, due partly to Nazi restrictions on emigration and partly to more stringent American supervision.

15,000 to U. S.

Officials calculated that, if the unfilled portions of the quotas of Germany and Austria were combined, about 15,000 persons could be brought into the United States between now and June 30.

Examiners Return Findings For $410, Cite 2 City Departments

In the annual audit of the city's municipal offices received here today from Columbus, state examiners returned findings for recovery in the amount of $410 most of which has been repaid, and cited two departments for making purchases exceeding $500 without advertising for bids, as required by law.

Of the total amount reported in their findings, $300 was charged against the health department in "borrowed" funds that has been re-imbursed since the audit was completed. The balance, in error was distributed among the various city offices in lesser amounts.

The health department was also criticized for purchasing an automobile, an expenditure in excess of $500, without calling for bids and the service department for the insuring of city property at the total cost of $2,309, another expenditure in excess of $500, without bids.

In the report on the health department findings for recovery, the examiner found that Dr. M. C. Hanson, former health commissioner, who resigned May 1, 1937, to go to Toledo had "borrowed" $300 from city funds, without authorization. Of this amount, which had not been recovered at the time of the completion of the audit Aug. 31, 1937, but which has since been repaid, Dr. Hanson "borrowed" $260 from the Child Health Demonstration fund and $40 from restaurant license collections.

Repayment of the $40 was made

Battleship Wins Steeplechase, Yanks Cash In For $2,750,000

(By International News Service)

AINTREE, Eng.—In the most spectacular finish in years, Battleship brought victory to the Stars and Stripes today in the 100th running of the Grand National Steeplechase.

Royal Danieli was second and Workman third.

Battleship paid 40 to 1, Royal Danieli 18 to 1 and Workman 33 to 1. Battleship's time was 9 minutes, 29 4-5 seconds. The winner is a son of Man o' War.

Battleship, American-bred and American-owned, is the property of Mrs. Marion Scott. Royal Danieli is owned by H. C. McNally and Workman by Sir Alex MacGuire.

The last American victory was in 1933 when Kellsboro Jack led the timber-toppers over the 4 and ½ miles of grueling jumps and hurdles.

Kellsboro Jack also was owned by a woman—Mrs. J. Ambrose Clark.

It was a bookmakers' holiday. None of the highly trumpeted favorites including Blueshirt and Royal Mail, last year's winner, finished in the money.

Had Blueshirt triumphed, it would have cost the bookies $5,000,000.

Battleship, an 11-year old carrying 160 pounds and riden by Jackey Bruce Hobbs, finished only a nose ahead of Royal Danieli.

It was the most thrilling finish seen in years. Battleship surged ahead almost at the post to hang up the victory for America in a

FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1938.

Inventions that save labor are now rated as dangerous. The ones most prized are those for killing people.

The leaning tower of Pisa, according to a research associate in soil mechanics, moves periodically in different directions. Something like the oscillations of that Rome-Berlin axis.

South Pacific Adventures.

THE government has been bombarded with letters from men and women volunteering to leave home and settle on Canton and Enderbury Islands, those two dots in the South Pacific which the United States now claims. No colonists are needed, thank you, Uncle Sam announces.

Letters setting forth the applicants' qualifications and aims rate more notice than they will receive if swallowed up in government files. For example:

A man wrote, "It isn't that I have the usual attack of adolescents' itchy foot, it's the fact that I have very odd ideas on how to live. I hate civilization and ultra-modern, suave, civilized people." Isn't that just a new version of old-fashioned spring fever?

A young lady explained, "I am interested in data on climatic conditions." Her letter was vague. Probably she wouldn't know how to gather her data if she had the chance. She would do better to consult the nearest public library.

A straightforward fellow declared, "I like to work, got a good reputation and a very nice wife who is very strong. She is Irish and I am Polish." He sounds almost too energetic for the South Seas.

The letters are proof that no one really escapes the lure of that region. They make one wonder how those islands happen to have remained uncolonized so long.

"Social Invention."

SPEAKING to a chamber of commerce group on Inventors' day, Waldemar B. Kaempfert, science editor of the New York Times, urged the need of "social inventions" to adapt democracy to the kind of society that the great mechanical inventors have created.

"Democracy, a product of the eighteenth century," he said, "must be geared to the high speed machinery the inventors have given us. I am one of those who think democracy can adapt itself to great social changes brought about by inventors and engineers."

It was more than a mere accident, he suggests, that the great mechanical and industrial inventions made by men like Edison, Brush, Wellman, Brown, Hulett, Bell, McCormick, and so on, were made in a democracy. He thinks the same free spirit and opportunity that inspired them should inspire other thinkers to give us social processes and equipment to handle better the conditions they have created.

New ideas on social problems, however, to suit new conditions and ease the social stresses and strains, are not welcomed so readily as new ideas on mechanical and business problems.

Parachute Army.

WHEN Russians some time ago were reported as going up in airplanes, soldiers and civilians alike, jumping out with parachutes, and alighting by thousands all over the landscape, they were not indulging in this sport merely for the fun of it. The purpose was military. Red strategists wanted a method of landing an army by air behind the enemy's lines.

Now the idea begins to look practical. A recent London dispatch says Russia has actually developed a "parachute army" of more than 100,000 men. It says further that this army has been mobilized and stands ready to be flown to Czechoslovakia, for military assistance to that country, if Germany starts an invasion.

This would solve the problem of getting a friendly army from Russia to Czechoslovakia without invading Poland by land. The Russian government is said to have assured France that, in case of need, it would even invade Poland to rush help to the Czechs, but the air route would be better.

The mere threat will probably help European peace. Hitler's talk is loud and bold, but hasn't yet started any war except against helpless minorities in Germany and Austria.

Japanese Trouble.

LITTLE KOKI HIROTA, Japanese foreign minister, told the Japanese diet the other day that Chiang Kai Shek, the Chinese commander-in-chief, "will be beheaded by the Japanese military whenever and wherever he is found." So all the Japanese army has to do now is to find Chiang.

That, however, seems difficult. Crafty Chiang keeps moving around. Perhaps he also uses disguises. Then, too, wherever he goes, he is surrounded by a large force of able fighting men. His effective army at present, he recently told an American correspondent, numbers about 2,000,000, and there are 2,000,000 more in training. He says their morale is high, and recent setbacks of the Japanese substantiate that. In fact, at present the invaders' war machine as a whole seems stalled. The Japs are great fighters, but they have gone too far, tried to grab too much territory, bitten off more than they could chew.

Meanwhile, as the dead come home and the war appropriations soar, the Japanese people at home show signs of discouragement and discontent and lawmakers riot over the budget in the parliament building at Tokyo.

Philatelic Delights.

SEVENTY THOUSAND pieces of mail were sent to Baltimore by stamp collectors for the recent opening of air mail service between the United States and Bermuda by Pan-American Airways. The postoffice workers carefully stamped each item with a "special reddish cachet, showing an Easter lily on each side of a map of Bermuda marked by the shadow of an airplane."

It sounds attractive, artistic, and even sentimental, but the ignorant non-collector is puzzled by the fact that the senders of all that mail were not seeking quick communication with friends in Bermuda. They wanted only additions to their collections. And they didn't care about the beauty of the stamp. Or did they? Maybe the fellow who hasn't the "bug" is just an envious old critic.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

IN ONE RESPECT the dictator countries are getting ahead faster than the democratic countries—that is in the development of new ideas, inventions.

The dictator countries, being poor in natural resources and actual coin of the realm, have to develop new mechanical operations to live.

In the United States, the present depression again has caused American industry to cut, cut, cut. That always has been the accepted rule here—cut when there is a depression, overexpand when there is not. It is no wonder that Hitler, seeing our millions of unemployed, grunts contemptuously of our democracy.

With all our tremendous resources, with the greatest number of highly trained men in the world and with a population eager to purchase if it can, our industrial leaders appear to crawl into a hole and shout deprecations, or for aid.

Prior to the recession, the government suddenly decided that it really was "interfering with business." It cut off, not so much the spending, as "socialized investments" and tossed out nearly everybody in the government service who was willing to lead along the experimental paths.

The contrary has occurred in Germany and Italy. The governments there have had to experiment—to save the people. And industry is forced to fall in with the government pace.

That is why Nazism and Fascism have their present appeal in Europe—they do not fear to experiment to bring people out of the economic depths.

As horrible as is the persecution in those dark lands of anti-liberty, men still will surrender their freedom for economic security.

A FAILING?

It is a new failing in America that industrial experiment must be curtailed. It is a failing of senility.

There seems to be some fear that if we experiment industrially, or in the entire field of business, we shall be adopting "alien" economic and political ideologies. The reverse is more likely to be true. If we do not overhaul our business system, we will have an uprising. The millions who walk the streets seeking jobs will not forever be content with their lot.

VAST FIELD OPEN

Businesses close their plants or their doors in this strangly competitive, dog-eat-dog world in which we Americans live, because outgo exceeds income, and credit is exhausted.

But why do the competitive groups not get together, under government supervision, and develop each a new project, a product produced in joint-plants under the tutelage, not of minds geared to competitive earnings, but minds that will produce the best at the most reasonable cost?

Wherever ideas are permitted to flourish, and wherever experimental management is permitted to go on unheeded, vast new fields are created.

Henry Ford always is creating new methods. He has made it possible for millions to have autos.

And, in the midst of depression, Walter Disney has produced a new kind of film entertainment. With the entire world disturbed and ters of millions hungry, his picture "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will have the largest earnings of any picture in history. Yet the "business leaders" of Hollywood thought his undertaking foolhardy. But they are the ones who have had to close part of their plants. . . .

And it is the same in every other business. America, with all its democracy, offers a closed door to the ideas that would gain us economic liberation. How can we stop the march of the dictators if we fear to stop the march of hunger in our own land because that may mean something which is traditionally different from our business methods? It is a queer, queer paradox. No wonder the Hitlers and the Mussolinis treat us with contempt.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

An actress naturally thinks that she is a star if the critics praise her to the skies.

A man may be respected for the enemies that he makes, but he is never envied.

Instead of trying to mend their ways some men could save a lot of time by hustling for a new supply.

Let's Look Around

Hollywood a City That Was Planned.

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

HOLLYWOOD, Fla.—Even here in Florida occasional rumors are heard of there being another Hollywood somewhere—out in one of the far-west states known as California, it appears.

But, so far as folks around here are concerned, this is the real "Hollywood" and it is here that predictions have become realities so quickly that the rather ambitious slogan, "Fastest growing city in Florida" seems justified.

Being only seventeen years removed from the tropical jungle that prevailed along the lower east coast of Florida until within the past few decades, Hollywood may well be regarded as among the modern miracles in which the pioneering spirit, coupled with determination and energy, accomplished the seemingly impossible.

Suffering for a time from the crash that followed the "boom" of 1925, Hollywood was among the early small cities to resume an upward climb and the past four years have been marked by a steadily increasing and substantial growth for which there are apparently excellent reasons.

In its very newness Hollywood has the distinct advantage of being a "planned city," with its spacious boulevards and wide streets designed to meet modern traffic conditions rather than being required to fit a motor age into "horse and buggy" streets.

Fifteen miles north of Miami, with a constantly shortening gap between the two cities, Hollywood provides a quiet restfulness, along with its six miles of ocean beach and other entertainment and recreational facilities — yet offers quick access to the more glamorous "sports capital" to the south.

From its ostentatious and exclusive Hollywood Beach hotel, with rates running into unimaginable figures, through to small hotels and rooming houses in which rates are as low as $1 a day, per person, Hollywood offers a wide range of accommodations for winter visitors, either for those who spend the entire season or for those who make only a short stay.

GETTING away from an earlier idea of hastily thrown together houses answering the purposes of boom-time selling, the Hollywood building program has been developed into a successful effort to combine beauty with permanence, rather than building merely for the moment.

The result has been that a number of recently-constructed moderate-priced homes not only combine the ideas of nationally-known architects, engineers, interior decorators and landscape artists, in producing attractive and distinctive homes, but also follow construction methods which insure durability.

It is estimated that the 1937 building operations in Hollywood passed the million-dollar mark—after having almost reached that figure the previous year.

As the winter quarters of the Riverside Military academy, of Gainesville, Ga., around six hundred cadets from that school are here from early in January until late in March—the record being that the boys are almost entirely free from illness during their stay here, with none of the days too cool for a dip in the ocean.

* * *

Still at the helm, as president of Hollywood, Inc., is Leon C. Herrick, former Mansfielder, who—around 35 years ago—was assistant in the city engineer's department and who was later state director of highways and public works. He has been associated with Hollywood, Inc., for the past seven years and this organization has taken a prominent part in the continued sound development of this community.

ALSO looked to as a considerable factor in the further development of Hollywood is the increasing importance of Port Everglades, just to the north, which is gaining steadily in recognition as a world port. Opened in 1932, after completion of a six-million dollar harbor project, Port Everglades has had phenomenal growth in foreign export and import trade, until, in 1937 the commerce loaded and discharged through this port approximated a million tons. An advantage pointed out is that Port Everglades is the only port on the south Atlantic with a 35-foot depth at low tide and that it is directly in the line of traffic between the United States and the Latin American countries to the south.

Most recent additions at the port, which attracts many passing tourists, are greatly increased facilities for refrigeration of shipments of vegetables and citrus fruits—which constitute a large percentage of Florida's surplus agricultural production.

ANOTHER thing being much talked about in Hollywood just now is a new race track on which work has already been started just south of the city and which has ambitions to eventually outshine far-famed Hialeah in the beauty of its surroundings and in the appeal of its racing program. Apparently reliable information is to the effect that the initial investment will reach a million dollars and that several additional millions are available for completion of the full program of construction and beautification. Plans call for grand stand seating capacity of 50,000, a fine club house, landscaping to provide a tropical setting for the 200-acre tract, and stables needed to care for as many as 2,000 racing horses.

Justification for such a new race course centers in the idea that the location will make it much more readily accessible than either Hialeah or Tropical Park, present Miami racing centers, and that increasing interest in horse racing is being displayed by Florida residents and visitors.

REVERTING to West Palm Beach, for a moment, many Mansfield people will be interested in learning that Charlet Cellars—a home-town girl—and her instrumental trio, are making a great hit with their luncheon and dinner music at the fashionable Royal Worth hotel, their season extending from December 15 to April 1. Miss Cellars is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Cellars, 429 Park avenue west.

YOU may also care to know that those new Ohio license plates—with the ox-cart implication—are attracting much attention and causing considerable amusement down here, the common query being as to whether such means of transportation is still in vogue in Ohio. The grotesque abbreviation, "150 ANNIV. N. W. TERR." also arouses curiosity, none being able to interpret it without assistance.

Wonder who ever thought of that idea anyhow? No favorable comments have yet been heard. The general impression is that it was a dumb notion.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, March 25, 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hehman, Cincinnati, returned home after spending week with Louis Hehman and family, West Third street.

William R. Remy, assistant fire chief, returned to his duties after a seven weeks illness.

Club women were giving up social activities to sew, knit and make bandages for Red Cross.

Mrs. Ola E. Kelley, bookkeeper for the Mansfield News, was confined to her home by illness.

David McConnell, West Fifth street, received word of the sudden death of his brother, Wallace McConnell, at Lakewood.

Mansfield and Richland county purchased $10,551 in thrift stamps during six day period.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, March 25, 1933.

Major T. J. Hanley, jr., instructor in the army air corps at Leavenworth, Kan., flew here to visit parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hanley.

Miss Helen Culler, Shenandoah, and Earl Fulwider were married at home of Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell Stoner.

Ice and snow on roads forced city and county highway and street department workers to turn out at 3 a. m. to keep roads clear.

Miss Ann Zahniser, student at Lake Erie college, returned to her home here for the week-end.

Lloyd Barr, president of the Izaak Walton league, spoke at meeting of Amima club.

FAIR ENOUGH

Hotels and the Tipping Practice.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SAN FRANCISCO—Mine host, the hotel keeper, is a nice enough sort of man whose beaming cordiality belies the gnawing headaches of his trade, but I am unable to understand why a business involving such large property values, which insists upon respectable rating in the community, has been unable to break itself of the low and offensive practice of moochery.

This refers to the custom of throwing the help in several departments of the hotel business on the variable generosity of the customers with the understanding that they are to live not by wages but by alms.

Pegler

The hotel trade is conscious of considerable dignity, and at least one university has a course of training in which the students learn how many pats of butter in the pound, how many rubber checks in a hundred and how to quell the rejoicing man in No. 1206 when the bottles and furniture begin to rain into the crowded street.

Some of our hotel men are important figures, large-scale employers and consumers. They have the tact and firmness of diplomats; they know the laws which are applicable to their business and many secrets of human nature which most of us are unaware of.

Yet the employment policy of the entire trade in those departments where the hired hands come into contact with the customers places both employes and the patrons in an unpleasant and unfair position.

EMPLOYE'S PAY NOT FIXED

The employe's pay is not fixed, and he may be and often is imposed upon by resentful or stingy guests.

The guest, on his part, always is conscious that he is being misused, for when he has paid $2 for a small sheet of steak, $1.50 for half a chicken and 35 cents for a sliced orange when oranges are wholesaling at a nickel a dozen, and has paid, in addition, a service charge of 25 cents per head, he is likely to believe he has met his responsibilities.

He feels that the boss ought to pay the waiter and reflects that the hotel man would feel outraged if, on buying a suit of clothes, he were required to hand the clerk $10 and pay the delivery man $1 for bringing it to his home.

Knowing nothing of hotel costs, I do not argue that the prices charged are high enough to enable the management to pay the help fair wages.

It may be that the hotel would have to charge even more in that case, but at least the waiter and guest would know how they stood and the unequal distribution of the burden between the shorts and the liberals would be corrected.

Unions have been making progress in the hotel lines, but even the organized houses still preserve the tip or handout system, and no hotel of my acquaintance ever has made an effort to conduct its business in the same way that a department store is run.

EXTRA CHARGE IN EUROPE

I have had some experience in European hotels, where 10 per cent and in Spain at least 20 per cent of the total was added to the bill for the pay of the employes. In France an extra 5 per cent was imposed for the cooks and washers, scrubbers and sweepers backstairs who were excluded from the original arrangement.

Twenty per cent seemed high, but it would have been acceptable even so if the help had not continued to hang around with their hands out, great files of them swarming out of the kitchens and cellars on checking-out day to mooch a little more with their "au revoirs" and door openings.

It should be possible for the American hotel man to establish a rate of prices for foods and lodgings sufficient to allow his own staff a fair scale and dispel the uncertainty and indecency inherent in the pan-handling system.

Listen, World!

The Land of the Glamor Gals.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

We're a pretty smart people in some ways, we Americans. But when it comes to women, we're as infantile as a one-minute egg. To continental countries, a woman's age is of little consequence. True—Tired Business Men like 'em dumb and dimpled anywhere. But, outside Parlor Games, most nations value women for their wit, charm, subtlety and intelligence. Not so in America! Here, they must be Glamor Gals. Or else—!

I remember my amazement when this fact first crashed into my personal program. It was my fortieth birthday—and I was late with my articles. Having noted that some of the sisters were considerably coy when it comes to calendars, I thought that Fortieth Birthdays might make swell copy. Whereupon I sat me down and began to kid The Ladies about their ages.

"What," said I, "did it matter? Who gives a hoot, darling, whether you're six or sixty, as long as you Act Regular and produce the goods?"

Whereupon I was greeted with a curdled chorus of groans, moans, sneers and tears. "Maybe," said they, "Being Forty doesn't matter to you, because you probably never looked like anything anyway. But don't you know what it means to other women? Don't you know that a woman can't hold a husband or get a job if anyone suspects she's Over Forty? Just try n' tell The Boss your real age and see how far you get!

"And what chance has a Good Faithful Wife against one of those Office Hussies if she let's herself look her age? Why, lookit what happened to a dear friend of mine. She didn't think looks mattered either—"

And so on and on into all the tragic details. Hysterical? Yes. But, unfortunately, based on truth. For these decent, intelligent, hard-working women were telling me Straight Facts. They were giving me the Low Down on America, as far as women are concerned. And, at a moment's notice, they could have produced a dozen Awful Examples to prove their arguments.

F'instance—Loyal and Loving Wives, dispossessed in favor of Cunning Cuties. Reliable, efficient workers passed up in favor of some Dumb Dora whose only qualifications for an office position are a Come-Hither look and an undulating Hip Action. Even in those positions where age and experience should be actual assets . . . school teaching . . . social service work . . . nursing . . . gray hairs and double chins still take the count in favor of girlish giggles and dimples.

From every magazine cover and billboard, every beauty advertisement and movie sign, the Glamor Girl cult blares its dominance. And if you can't conform, it's just Your Bad Luck!

Consider, for example, the case of Greta Garbo. Garbo is a truly great actress. She has a fanatical devotion to art . . . giving herself to it without reservation. She happens to be beautiful, but she makes no point of that in her roles. Indifferently she tosses personal prettiness aside—and, with magnificent humility, registers life as it comes. Once the immortal Bernhardt pursued the same course, and the world knelt at her feet, even though she was wrinkled, old, handicapped with a wooden leg. And, again, Duse, the great Italian, discarded her lovely, femininity — played the Truth. Even a week before she died, when she was but a silvered wraith, those watching wept and yearned toward her flickering flame.

But when, in America, Garbo dares to ignore her youth and don the mask of Reality, what happens?

They laugh at her big feet! They snicker because she is supposed to have said, "I tank I go home." And Hollywood, yearly honoring Pretty Petty Pouters, has no medal for Garbo—says she isn't "Box Office."

Not "Box Office!" What a devastating expose of America's immaturity . . . its ga-ga infantilism!

Health Advice

How Varicose Veins Are Treated.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

Sudden pain in the legs is a not unusual symptom. Perhaps the victim has been conscious of a constant ache which he has neglected. With the onset of the severe pain and examination of the leg, he is surprised to find that the veins are distended, engorged and much enlarged.

This is a common affliction. It is medically known as "varicose veins." Any vein of the body may become involved, but those of the lower extremity are the ones usually affected.

Just why such changes should occur in a blood vessel is not well understood. Some never suffer in this way but others acquire the trouble at an early age. Usually it is associated with age. It is more commonly found in those who are overweight and are obliged to stand on their feet a great deal.

Has Elasticity.

Normally, a vein possesses a great deal of elasticity, being easily distended or compressed. It is usually compared to an elastic rubber band, which after being stretched recoils at once to its normal size and shape. But if the elasticity is lost the varicose condition develops. The blood vessel no longer has the ability to stretch and recoil. It becomes firm and brittle. As a result of these changes the blood is unable to flow freely through the vessel. This leads, so to speak, to stagnation of the blood, and enlargement of the vessel.

When I was a young doctor, varicose veins were treated by the wearing of an elastic stocking or by the use of some other appliance. In a severe case the victim was subjected to an operation in which the diseased blood vessel was stripped from the leg. This was a painful and disfiguring procedure, requiring a rather long time for recovery.

Today varicose veins are treated in a much more simple manner. One way is by the so-called injection method. In this treatment a "sclerosing" solution is injected into the tissues, resulting in the ultimate obliteration of the varicosity. Consult with your doctor who will advise you about it.

If he does not approve of this method of control, he will recommend some other. The important thing is to get rid of an annoying and disabling condition.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

DIVINE PROTECTION—Thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat, when the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm against the wall.—Isaiah 25:4.

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

THE HOME I CHOOSE

I choose a house for my own home;
Upstairs and down I wish,
And I must have an attic, too;
A pool for golden fish

Within the garden, where I want
To raise the flowers I love,
And where on summer nights I would
Commune with stars above.

I choose a home, day-dreaming now;
No place it would be,
But such a place as shall reveal
My soul, itself, to me.

WAIT NAZI VIEW ON REFUGEES

European Powers, American Nations Study Plan to Evacuate Outcasts.

mal discussions in London.

The World Federation of Polish Jews appealed to Poland to extend protection to 30,000 Jews of Polish extraction in Austria. The united Palestine appeal began a United States campaign for $4,500,000. Since the Nazi regime began in Germany, officials said, the organization has settled 35,000 Jews in Palestine.

British Favoring Hull's Proposal.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Great Britain will agree to the United States proposal for setting up a special international committee to facilitate the emigration of political refugees from Austria and Germany, authoritative sources said today.

It was understood that a reply to the invitation of United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull asking Britain's participation would be forwarded soon. Hull invited nine European governments, including Britain, Italy, France, the Scandinavian countries, Belgium, the Netherlands and Switzerland, to participate in the movement. Invitations also were sent to Latin American countries.

Government officals were understood to have begun immediate, sympathetic consideration of Hull's invitation which was received yesterday through Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

Roosevelt Studies Refugee Program.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—(INS)—International affairs intruded on President Roosevelt's vacation here today in Georgia's brilliant springtime when William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, arrived for conference and temporary White House wires hummed with latest developments in America's surprise move to find havens for "political refugees."

Although th government's invitation to nine European powers and Latin American republics to co-operate in giving homes to political unfortunates in Germany and the recently absorbed Austria obviously had been plotted by the president before his departure for Warm Springs, overnight he smilingly referred all inquiries to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Bullitt's visit was regarded as most significant because he is regarded by many as the key diplomat in continental Europe. It was Bullitt who, as a private citizen, explored for Mr. Roosevelt in advance of his 1933 inauguration. He then became ambassador to Russia and was later shifted to Paris.

Domestically, the "critical" railroad situation moved into Warm Springs to distract the president's desire to snatch a holiday at his "Little White House' on Pine mountain.

Britain Renews Rearmament Study.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Britain bent renewed energy today toward mighty rearmament—"first priority" of Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy.

Chamberlain yesterday warned Britain she might have to fight, even though in his long-awaited pronouncement of policy in Central Europe he refused to bind the nation in advance to a pledge to halt any German aggression in that quarter.

"* * * Where peace and war are concerned, legal obligations are not alone involved and if war were to break out it would be unlikely to be confined to those who have assumed such obligations," he declared.

Picturing rearmed Britain as a sentinel of world peace, Chamberlain said all else was secondary to immediate rearmament on a wartime scale.

Labor leaders were placed in the forefront of the revived effort to weigh Chamberlain's words with guns and planes.

Blum Bows, Averts New Cabinet Crisis.

PARIS — (INS — A new cabinet crisis for France was averted today as Premier Leon Blum bowed to senatorial opposition to his financial plans.

Possibility that the cabinet might resign was avoided when Blum, at a ministerial council meeting, said he would ask the chamber of deputies to vote favorably on the senate version of the finance bill.

The cabinet met after the senate rejected Blum's financial proposale, chief of which was a suggestion that $60,000,000 be transferred from the exchange equalization fund for purposes of national defense.

FINDINGS FOR $410 RETURNED

State Examiners Cite 2 City Departments For Buying Without Bids.

Sept. 22, 1937, and the $260 was repaid Oct. 23, last year, the examiners said.

They reported that Dr. Hanson had also owed an additional $645, which he had "borrowed" from funds under the jurisdiction of the board of health, at the time he had resigned his position as health commissioner. However before the completition of the audit the entire amount had been returned and accounted for.

The examiners pointed out that they failed to find any authority for the handling of funds in this manner and could only "offer most severe criticism" for the failure to promptly account for the funds.

Neither did they find, they said, authority for the board of health through any of its officers or employes to maintain a separate fund for money placed under its control.

They recommended that the special Child Health fund savings account, now in the name of Miss Martha McFarland, deputy registrar, be transferred to the city treasury through pay-in-order of the city auditor and if desirable, a separate account of such fund could be set up on the records of the auditor and treasurer so that the money can be disbursed as authorized by the board of health.

They also recommended that any future purchases by the board of health that exceed $500 be authorized by city council. They cited the purchase of an automobile Aug 4, 1936, for $625, from the health fund for which they had no authority from council.

It also pointed out that on July 14, 1937, the service department, which was then headed by Philip Wolfe, entered into a contract without competitive bidding for insurance for all city property not covered or inadequately covered by insurance. A blanket insurance policy was purchased from several agents at a cost of $2,309, which is in excess of the $500 limit which city officials are allowed to make purchases without receiving bids.

The report said that one individual contract exceeded the $500 limit, and recommended that all future contracts over that amount be let by competitive bidding after securing the authority of council

A Farmer's Diary

March 24.

THIS evening I went to see my neighbor's stock. It was just feeding time. The sheep stood impatiently by the gate while the farmer poured oats and shelled corn into long troughs. I counted more than fifty ewes and as many lambs of all sizes and colors. The older ones would frisk and jump straight up more than two feet. They scurried here and there and bunched up into a huddle. I fancied I heard one calling numbers and the fastest runner planning for a touchdown.

The farmer opened the gate and the ewes jammed through to reach the feeding trough. The lambs brought up the rear, jumping and prancing, yet not unmindful of their elders.

"When have you seen a push like this?" he asked.

"I saw something like it today at an auction sale," I told him. "These animals seem almost human."

He led me to the barn and showed me a calf three days old, sleeping peacefull, in a nice warm bed of straw. "A splendid little critter and her mother's mother had the fourth highest award in the state three years ago."

He bade me look in the next stall to the north. There I saw a wriggling nest of spotted, lusty, five-day-old pigs. He fed the mother a slop of milk and meal.

The chickens moped in the darkening loft above, slowly and cautiously settling into their quarters for the night.

Across the road still another sow and pigs—nine of them—were waiting to be fed.

I watched this neighbor making his barnyard family comfortable, and remembered the adage, "The eye of the master fattens the cattle." By C.A.B.

GIRL TRIO WINS FIRST PLACE IN SECOND TALENT CONTEST

The Three Grace Notes, Mansfield's trio of girl harmonizers, won first place last night in the second elimination contest of the talent quest which is being conducted at the Ohio theater by the National Broadcasting company, Warner Brothers and The News-Journal.

The trio, comprised of Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan and Ruth Cox, who long have been favorites in Westinghouse shows and who were headliners in the Christmas Charity show last December, walked away with first honors when they sang "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen." Winners were chosen by the greatest volume of applause from the audience.

Second winner, who will also have an opportunity to compete in the Mansfield final contest on April 7, was Ralph Smith, Galion, a ventriloquist who has appeared before a number of groups in Mansfield.

Only the two winners are eligible to compete further, but running Smith a close race was Paul Ganaway who sang "Love Walked In." Others who took part in the contest were Jane Foltz singing "Sympathy", Frankie and his Hillbilly Ramblers; Mary Sabolick, dancer on roller skates; and Snowball and company, an act from one of the night clubs in Mansfield this week.

The third and final elimination contest will be staged at the Ohio next Thursday. On the following Thursday, April 7, the six winners of the eliminations will participate in the final, from which the Mansfield winner will be chosen. The winner will go on a four-week tour of six Ohio theaters, and the winner of the tour will go to New York City for screen and radio tests.

E. R. Alcott, talent scout of NBC, Cleveland, who serves as master of ceremonies, will bring two Cleveland acts to Mansfield with him next Thursday. They will not compete in the contest however.

north side of West Fourth street were cut off for a few hours.

All manufacturing plants were closed down, many of them flooded, and cut off from the rest of the city. The uptown flood lasted only a few hours, while the lowlands were flooded until the streams began to subside at the end of the second day.

The Mansfield News had its troubles telling the news of the flood, not only as it affected Mansfield but from the southern part of the state.

Equipped with electric power for the operation of linotype machines and press, the News found its power supply gone when the electric lines failed.

A steam engine was quickly rigged up to turn the presses, and the linotype operators reverted to setting type by hand, a slow and tedious process. In order to put out even a make-shift edition on Tuesday, when the flood was at its height, cases of type were borrowed from other printing companies.

In its lead editorial on Tuesday, The News explained its difficulties, and concluded with "We're doing the best we can, so don't shoot."

While Mansfield sought to meet the emergency, other Ohio cities were devastated, Dayton being the hardest hit of any. While the first news reports from the stricken city estimated the dead at more than a thousand, the known dead after the waters receded were 350, but the property damage was estimated afterward at $100,000,000.

The flood held Dayton in a grip of terror for more than a week and the city was under martial law. Fire brought new horrors and a large section of the city's business district was destroyed while fire apparatus from Columbus, Cincinnati and other cities, rushed to Dayton on flat cars, battled to save the rest of the city.

It was Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, storm center of the present TVA controversy, whom Dayton hailed as its savior from any similar future tragedy. Morgan planned and directed the five huge dams which now harness the Miami, Stillwater and Mad rivers, and the Loramie and Twin creeks, and which make up the entire Miami conservancy district. The project cost approximately $10,000,000 and was shared by 10 counties protected by it.

The effectiveness of the Miami conservancy plan was proved last year when the Dayton district was unaffected by the Big Ohio river flood.

There have been several times since 1913 when Mansfield's lowlands were threatened, and only last year streets in parts of the district were covered with high waters for several hours when the storm sewers of the city failed to carry away the water of torrential rains, but the 1913 flood still stands as the only one in the history of the state that seriously affected Mansfield.

should include private power companies which have opposed the administration power "yardstick."

Barkley's lengthy resolution included Norris' requests and also covered the recent ouster by President Roosevelt of Arthur E. Morgan from the chairmanship of the agency's battling directors.

As author of the resolution, Barkley, under senate custom, could control appointment of the investigations. This was regarded as likely to eliminate Bridges and King from committee membership.

The senate postponed a final vote on government reorganization until Monday in order to consider the TVA inquiry.

THEATER

DOROTHY LAMOUR can't get away from the characters that wear sarongs. Her next release will be "Her Jungle Love," with Ray Milland, who appeared with her in her first picture, "Jungle Princess" . . . "College Swing" is another musical, but studios are forbidding the use of the word "musicals" in their advertising, which indicates that there is a definite swing away from this type of show . . . Current history changes so rapidly that producers can't keep up with it. "Stolen Heaven," ready to be released, had to have scenes re-shot and all Austria and Vienna eliminated. All to please Mr. Hitler, who could forbid the picture being shown in Germany and Austria if he wanted to . . . "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" with Cooper and Colbert is scheduled for release today . . .

Benefit Show Opens.

The benefit picture, "Of Human Hearts" opened at the Madison theater Thursday with several hundred tickets sold in advance by the University women of Mansfield, who brought the picture here for the benefit of their scholarship fund. The picture has been highly praised, both as to story and acting. It should be of particular interest to natives of Ohio, for the locale is an authentic small town in the southern part of the state in the two decades beginning with 1850. The entire town was reproduced, and the characters are typical of the sturdy pioneers who came into the new state to establish another dynasty. A backwoods boy grows to manhood and fights his way through obstacles to a career. The Civil war, as it touched the lives of this one family, is a part of the background. Walter Huston, James Stewart and Beulah Bondi are the major characters.

Stage Show at Ohio.

Roscoe Ails, of the stage and screen, will do his bit to cheer up audiences at the Ohio theater—if they need cheering—tomorrow and Saturday. The breezy master of ceremonies and entertainer heads the Follies Gay Paree, stage show which is booked for the Ohio the last two days of the week. The Follies is made up of a swing band, dancers, models, singers and novelty acts. Among the headliners are Helen Miller, blues singer, Carleton and Juliette, Continental dancers; Yvonne Le Roux, interpretative dancer, and a half dozen others. The picture attraction is a mystery thriller in which an American G-Man stalks the most sensational safe cracker and jewel thief in France, "Arsene Lupin Returns."

Remember This Star?

Film goers of the silent days will find a familiar face in the cast of "God's Country and The Man?" starring Tom Keene, which is a Majestic theater attraction tomorrow and Saturday. It is that of Betty Compson, once a top bracket star who was at the height of her career when she co-starred with the late Thomas Meighan in "The Miracle Man," which still ranks as one of the greatest pictures ever made. In her current film, she plays a cafe violinist. Carlotte Henry is also featured. Joe Brown in "Polo Joe" has the wide mouthed star playing polo on a frisky mount on the occasion of his first horseback attempt. Joe gets into deep waters when he brags of his polo accomplishments which exist only in his imagination.

Elmer Is Found.

Elmer, that perpetual question mark of the American Legion, has been found, but not in the Legion ranks. He is a "dummy" acquired by Max Terhune one of the Three Mesquiteers who bring another of their screen adventures to Ritz audiences Friday and Saturday. Elmer was introduced some time ago, and now is a big attraction with these three Western players. Terhune manipulates the dummy. Buddy Rogers leads a sparkling parade of newcomers and old timers in "This Way Please," the second feature. Betty Grable, Mary Livingstone, Ned Sparks, Rufe Davis and Akim Tamiroff head the parade with Rogers in a romance woven around a pretty usherette in a theater, the leader of the orchestra and all of the attaches of the modern theater.

CHAMBERLAIN'S SPEECH SEEN ONE OF FAITH

Future Security of Britain Staked on Hope Fascists Will 'Play Cricket.'

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

NEW YORK — Prime Minister Chamberlain's long deferred announcement of Britain's foreign policy — in effect that England will fight only where her interests are concerned—is more than a statement of policy: it is a striking affirmation of the English statesman's faith in mankind.

He is—as some of his own followers have warned him—gambling the future security of the British Empire in his belief (or maybe it is hope) that the Fascist states will "play cricket."

Few British premiers have carried a greater burden of responsibility than did the slight, frail appearing Chamberlain as he faced a tense house of commons to make his pronouncement.

His alone was the ultimate decision as to what course should be pursued in this great international crisis. He was a solitary man in a lonely post, for the support of his colleagues couldn't alter his personal responsibility.

Fact for History.

Whether Chamberlain, who has aged in the service of his country, is right or wrong, history will record that he did not waver as he took his place by the ancient oaken table on the floor of the house. He spoke his mind with the cold precision which is one of his characteristics, the while he leaned an elbow on the old leather-bound dispatch box which has served so many generations of prime ministers.

"We still intend," said that clear but unemotional voice, "to employ ourselves and urge others to employ the methods of reason and diplomacy rather than those of menace and force."

This had reference to the fact that Chamberlain for a long time has been trying to make agreements with Hitler and Mussolini in the interests of peace. Just now, since Hitler's absorption of Austria, Britain has centered her attentions on Italy in the hope of weakening the Rome-Berlin axis, and thus perhaps forcing the German leader to restrict his program.

What Chamberlain has in mind, in pursuing his policy of not resorting to arms unless British interests are affected, is this:

1. He is following the adage that a bird in the hand is worth a couple in the bush. That is, peace right now is worth a lot of vague possibilities for the future.

2. He is gambling that if any great danger arises in the distant future, Britain will be able to protect herself.

MOVIE TICKETS REMAIN ON SALE

University Women to Continue Drive Until Tomorrow.

Tickets for the University Women's benefit show, "Of Human Hearts," which opened at the Madison theater yesterday, will remain on sale at the Tawse Pharmacy and The Book Shop through Saturday.

Miss Ruth Dunham, one of the ticket chairmen, said today that all ticket workers will continue to sell tickets throughout the run of the show in view of the fact that her group benefits only from tickets sold by workers. Those sold at the Madison box office do not benefit the University Women's scholarship fund.

Partial reports were made to Mss Dunham and Mrs. W. L. Miller, also a chairman, last night at the theater, but no estmate can be made on the number of tickets sold by workers until late Saturday night, Miss Dunham said.

The women are sponsoring the picture show as a first project to raise money for a $5,000 scholarship fund.

race that attracted a capacity crowd of 250,000.

DUBLIN — (INS) — When an American horse, Battleship, boomed across the finish line in the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England, today, lucky Americans garnered $2,750,000 in Irish Hospital sweepstakes winnings.

Twelve lucky Americans held tickets on Battleship—and to each will go $150,000, for a total of $1,800,000 on that horse alone. Uncle Sam will get his "cut" in income taxes.

Eight Americans lost out on the major prize by only a head. Each had $75,000 riding on the nose of Royal Danieli, which placed second to send $600,000 acress the Atlantic.

Workman, third, was held by seven Americans, who each get $50,000 for a total of $350,000.

Audience of 600 Sees Revue of 60 Dancers, Singers

About 60 youthful dancers and singers, students of the Herrick Twins' studio of dancing presented a two-hour revue last night before an audience of more than 600 in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium.

Although the program was made up largely of tap dance numbers, enough comedy and novelty acts were included to add variety to the entertainment.

Most popular with the audience were Peggy Hess, with her imitation of a Judy Canova act; Eugene Gump's comedy songs and dances; Miss Mildred Wappner, toe and acrobatic dancer; a brother and sister dance act by Jack and Mary Alice Berger; Beverly Mertler, five-year-old skate dancer, and Beverly Price, dancer and "blues" singer.

Other feature numbers included a dance act by Billy Hammett and 10 little girls; Robert Baker who played a violin as he danced, a rope dance by Kathleen Diemer, and a "stair dance" by Margery Wappner.

The Senior high school girls' drum corps marched onto the stage at the conclusion of the program to add a military touch to the entertainment. James Brownscombe was master of ceremonies with Jimmy San's orchestra playing during intermissions.

Proceeds of the show went to the Senior high school fund.

Heads Next Music Season

Miss Anderson has been hailed as one of the greatest artists of [illegible] time, in the music centers of Europe, and returned to America some time ago to win new triumphs here.

TAKE FIXTURES

Thieves Loot Vacant House of Bathroom Equipment.

It apparently doesn't pay to install new bathroom fixtures in a vacant house, J. J. Haupt, 224 West Third street, concluded today as he reported the theft of $27 worth of fixtures installed only two days ago.

Haupt told police the house at 113 West Sixth street was vacant and that someone had forced entrance and with the aid of tools had carted away the fixtures.

Police also reported that they had been called to the Town Tavern, 205 West Fourth street, at 4 a. m. today by a merchant policeman, when he found the rear door of the establishment standing open.

They reported that the rear door had been forced open and the place ransacked. Michael Miller, proprietor, said that nothing had been taken.

LEADERS FALL IN SHIFT TO LOWER LEVELS

Market Exceptionally 'Thin' as 1 to 2 Points Separate Bids and Offers.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks shifted to lower levels in today's market, many leaders falling as much as a point or so.

The retreat was orderly with the ticker tape moving slowly from the start.

The majority of rails and utilities were about unchanged.

The market again was exceptionally "thin," gaps of 1 to 2 points being frequent between bids and offers. Stocks at London were higher, but the Paris Bourse weakened. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Market analysts noted week-end trade surveys which indicated public spending continued to lag behind a year ago.

While Easter demand, Dun & Bradstreet reported, lifted retail volumes 3 to 8 per cent above last week—in the mid-west upturns of as much as 25 per cent were disclosed — distribution for the country as a whole was 10 to 20 per cent below the comparable 1937 period.

Securities and exchange commission figures for February showed a drop in dollar values on all registered exchanges of 73 per cent from the same month last year. Total sales of stocks were off 33 per cent.

BOY TELLS OF GIRL'S SLAYING

Declares He Lost Nerve After Killing Sweetheart In Suicide Agreement.

lieutenant and West Point graduate, now an accountant, was at work, his mother was out doing her marketing, his three young brothers were in school. They had planned it that way.

And so they wrote their pitiful suicide pact with its postscript written by Charlotte to her mother and dad:

"I love you both and I am sorry for this, but I love him more."

Then Charlotte indicated the spot just below her "suicide corsage" where Donald should press his father's service revolver. A last kiss and then Donald pressed the trigger. Charlotte lay still, a half smile on her lips. A tiny trickle of blood gave her white flowers a curious appearance. White for innocence—red for violence and death.

But Donald did not go through with the pact. A long time he sat there. Once he leaned over, kissed his dead sweetheart full on the lips. When he rose, there was blood on his coat.

His mind made up, he telephoned police.

Today District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan prepared to ask a grand jury to return a first degree murder indictment.

City Officials Held to Blame For $26,000 Fund Shortage.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Harold H Rodecker, former city treasurer of Washington Court House, and his bondsmen were held liable for $26,745 in city funds lost in the failure of the Ohio State bank in an examiner's report filed with the state bureau of inspection.

Those held jointly and severally responsible with Rodecker were C P. Ballard, the late M. S Daugherty, G. B. Rodgers and N. P. Clyburn, Rodecker's bondsmen, and the same parties and J. E. Smith, surety for the bank.

The finding by Examiner J. D Breese was based on a ruling by Atty. Gen. Herbert S Duffy last December, in which he held invalid an action by the city council in September, 1933, directing dismissal of a court action to collect the funds.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Friday, March 25. "Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man" Read Mark 7-18-23

The text is Matthew's brief version of the longer passage in Mark The Jewish scholar, Montefiore, has written a commentary on the gospels. He goes along through the sayings of Jesus, finding a precedent or parallel for many, if not most, of them in the teaching of the Jewish rabbis But when he comes to this passage he is halted. There is, he says, nothing in Jewish teaching even to suggest, much less to warrant, its idea.

We cannot live in the world—and the alternative is something like a monastery—without seeing and hearing a great many things, some of them unclean, which we would rather not have seen and heard. The memory of them seems to soil us. We wish we could cleanse the mind of them. What can we do about them? Well, we can let them die a natural death. They are kept alive only when they are returned to the world in our talk, even though we speak of them to regret and reprobate them. If you don't tell these things back to the world, they finally take care of themselves. You need not be defiled by evil you cannot help hearing or seeing but you are defiled if you give it a new lease of life in your own words.

Prayer: Almighty God, when we have suffered from the stain and slow contagion of the world, restore to us the blessedness of the pure in heart who see thee: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Senate Set to Vote on Reorganization Bill Monday

PASSAGE SEEN AS FOES END HECTIC FIGHT

Rejection of Byrd Amendment Puts Aside Final Major Threat Against Program.

WASHINGTON — The senate temporarily laid aside the executive department reorganization bill today after securing an agreement to vote on it not later than 5 p. m. Monday.

The agreement included a provision that all amendments and a motion to recommit the bill be voted upon by 3 p. m., and contained the specific order that any attempt to attach the anti-lynching bill as a rider would be out of order.

A report that Sen. Bennett C. Clark, D., Mo., intended to attach the anti-lynching bill to the reorganization measure found southern senators on their guard. Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., argued with Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., until he was assured that the measure would not be injected under a limited debate rule.

Blocked By Filibuster.

When the anti-lynching bill was before the senate earlier this session, its proponents claimed 70 votes for it. Its passage was prevented only by a filibuster against it by southern senators.

Clark assured George that he had "absolutely no intention" of tacking the anti-lynch bill to the to the re-organization bill, but George insisted that, should it be proposed, all debate limitation agreements be dropped.

Such an arrangement, however, would have permitted opponents of the re-organization bill to tender the anti-lynch amendment, and create a filibuster against not only the amendment, but against the entire re-organization measure.

Agrees To Compromise.

The senate finally agreed to a compromise proposal by Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, jr., Prog., Wis., that any move to attach the anti-lynching bill as a rider would be out of order.

Earlier, the senate rejected, 36 to 47, an amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., opposition leader, to strike out a section replacing the comptroller general with an auditor general having power to make post-audits only. That defeat of the last major opposition threat virtually assured passage of the bill intact, despite the motion to recommit made by Sen. David I Walsh, D., Mass.

Grand Jury Indicts 14 In 2-Day Session

Up and Down THE STREET

One of the sports highlights of this week-end is a bowling match. It will determine whether L. A. Cook, commander of the McVey post, American Legion, is a better bowler than James V. Suhr, Cleveland, state commander, or vice versa. The match has been hanging fire for sometime but they agreed only recently that the best time to display their prowess would be at the Legion state tournament, which opens in the city tomorrow. So at 7 p. m. Saturday the two commanders are going to find out whether either has any business claiming bowling ability.

Although the two bus breakdowns experienced by the Senior High school band on its trip to Bluffton last week were unpleasant at the time, they turned out to be a profitable experience for the band According to Jesse Beer, principal of the school, when the school received the bill for the trip, the amount quoted had been cut in half. The officials of the bus company stated that because of the breakdowns and the inconveniences it caused the band, the price for the trip was reduced.

STRESSES NEED OF PARK WORK

C. of C. Committee, Perturbed Over Council's Failure to Act, Confers Monday.

Further discussion on a proposed city parks project calling for the expenditure of $25,000, largely WPA funds, will be taken up Monday night at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce parks and city beautification committee.

Meeting with city officials, the committee will discuss ways and means of financing the proposal that calls for $6,000 in city funds, with WPA furnishing $19,000.

The committee somewhat perturbed over the failure of council to act on the proposal, which has the sanction of the Chamber of Commerce and the city's various garden clubs, has called the meeting to emphasize to city officials the serious need of the project in order to protect Mansfield's public parks against further deterioration.

The proposal, recently referred to council by the Chamber of Commerce, includes the cleaning out of dead trees, beautifying unsightly spots, building stone ramps through the parks over embankments to the streets, tearing down unsightly buildings, and installing equipment to make the parks practical for outdoor recreation centers.

The project has been approved by the district WPA office and is now awaiting an appropriation from council before it will be sent to Washington for final approval.

Monday's meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the office of the Chamber of Commerce on the fifth floor of the Farmer's bank building.

DUFFY DEMANDS DATA ON OHIO NAZI-AMERICAN BUND GROUPS

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Activities in Ohio of the German-American bund, Nazi organization, were being investigated today by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

The attorney general revealed that he had written to Fritz Kuhn, New York, national head of the bund, asking for information concerning officers of the bund in Ohio, their activities, and the purpose for which three camps were established in Ohio.

Duffy said he wanted to find out "if they are violating any Ohio laws, particularly the criminal syndicalism statute."

The Ohio Nazi camps, Duffy reported, are German Center, in Cleveland; Youth Camp O. 5, in Cincinnati, and Camp Richthofen, in Dayton.

The attorney general said he had received "certain confidential information concerning the bund."

"I am desirous of knowing, at once, the names of the local chairmen and all other officials of these camps," a statement from Duffy read.

"I am also desirous of knowing, at once, the scope of their activities and the purpose for which they are organized, the address of their places of meeting, and complete information with reference to these three camps

"If this is not immediately forthcoming action will be taken to compel that such information be certified to this office."

Fourteen indictments were returned late yesterday by the Richland county grand jury which studied 16 cases and examined 30 witnesses in a session that got under way Wednesday morning.

The jury ignored two cases and returned three secret indictments. Dimon Herring, Mansfield, was jury foreman.

Among the true bills reported to Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston by the jury were indictments for breaking and entering against Leroy Bemiller, Perrysville, and his wife, Anna. They are accused of entering the home of Mrs. Mattie Bowman near Butler and taking a number of household articles.

John Campbell and Harvey Day, colored Mansfield residents, were indicted on charges of cutting with intent to wound

Case 7 Months Old.

Other indictments are:

Alvin Guthrie and Paul Rhodes, breaking and entering; Jesse Snyder, grand larceny; Luther Stall, assault with intent to kill; Harold Hoover, abandoning his wife; Arthur Jordan and Vaughn Watkins, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Persons indicted by the jury will be arraigned before Judge Huston at 9 a. m. Saturday. Seven of the 11 held under open indictments were in the county jail yesterday, while three were out on bond and the other is in the Toledo state hospital.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Only Hope In Congress.

EXCEPT upon the theory that he puts his own vanity and pride above the interests of the people and is willing to sacrifice the nation rather than admit himself wrong, the attitude of Mr. Roosevelt toward the vital matter of taxation cannot reasonably be explained.

To believe anything else is to impute to him a degree of mental cloudiness which hardly can exist. The statement made before the senate finance committee on Tuesday by Dr. Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury and spokesman for the administration, made it perfectly clear that neither leadership nor help in removing the restrictive taxes, concerning the ruinous nature of which there is almost unanimous agreement, can be expected from the president.

ON THE contrary, his weight is being exerted to retain these taxes and the hope of action that will permit business to regain its health lies in the ability of congress to override the president. That is a simple statement which the facts bear out, and which no one who fairly considers them can doubt. The first fact is that the country is in a dangerously deep depression with business flat and millions out of work. The second is that the most important and pressing problem is to restore business activity and confidence, it being clear that unless that is done increased unemployment and greater distress is bound to ensue. The third fact is that the things which stand in the way of recovery are—first, the president's unmodified attitude of hostility toward business; second, the vicious undistributed-surplus tax which he forced through congress and which has undermined industrial safety and failed as a revenue producer; third, the capital-gains tax, which stands in the way of business expansion and prevents the liquid flow of money.

CONCERNING these facts there is overwhelming agreement. It is not only "Big Business" which asserts them. It is not just the bankers and financiers who make these arguments. Even more emphatically they have been proclaimed by the little business men, voiced by labor leaders as well as by economists, editors, commentators, professional men and politicians. Not long ago the president's friend, Mr. B. M Baruch, with admirable tolerance and every regard for the president's feelings, made an effective statement along these lines. A few days ago Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the finance committee, going farther than Baruch, declared that what the country needed was the complete repeal of the surplus tax, a modification of the capital-gains tax and a helpful attitude toward business. Left to itself, congress would have repealed the surplus tax last session. If the president would support Senator Harrison's view now or accept the soundness of the Baruch statement, the response in congress would be practically unanimous. There would not be a handful of votes against a tax bill along the Harrison lines supported by the administration, and the beneficial effect on business would be immediate.

BUT IS the president supporting Senator Harrison? Is he in tune with the friendly and loyal Baruch? Is he responding to the vehement little business men, who so recently pressed him along exactly the same lines? Is he doing anything to convince the business of the country, big or little, that he does not intend further interference; that he wants to help it regain its feet and relieve it of oppressive burdens? He is not, he has not and apparently he will not. Instead, he continues to make speeches vaguely denouncing "the selfish few" who block "reform"; permits his close friends and advisers violently to attack business generally, and authorize his treasury expert to oppose modification of the capital-gains tax and insist upon retention of the surplus tax.

* * *

AS FOR his "attitude," it remains undiluted in its unfriendliness and he continues his appeals to the unthinking against the sin of success. Why? There are several reasons. One is that a change in his attitude involves admission that he was wrong and his critics right. Even faced with a crisis, he seems not big enough to do that. Another is that, except for his son James, who has become wealthy, his intimates are mostly men of radical views, some of whom are frankly anti-business, and who seem to have a dominating influence upon him. A third is that after five years of great popularity, he feels the slipping of his grip and has hate in his heart for those who have pointed out and are pointing out his blunders.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Among numerous actresses mentioned for the role of Scarlett O'Hara was Bette Davis, who is now the only candidate who didn't get it and at the same time did get a chance to show what she could have done with it.

"Jezebel" is Miss Davis' opportunity, and while her Julie Marsden isn't exactly Scarlett O'Hara, the two girls are cut from the same pattern—wilful, tempestuous, wily and unscrupulous gals of the Old South.

Miss Davis gives a thumping, strenuous and interesting interpretation of the Scarlett type, malignantly dominating, reckless and unconventional, pitiable and evil.

But "Jezebel" is not—as playfully suggested—a Warner Bros. version of "Gone With the Wind." It will take nothing from that picture when Selznick gets around to making it, and it will stand up on its own reelage as an engrossing piece of theatrical fireworks.

Julie is a New Orleans belle of 1853, wild as the cold she rides, delighting in flaunting convention When her wilfulness loses the love of Preston (Henry Fonda) she comes to her senses, mopes until his return. When he brings back a northern bride, Julie schemes frantically, foments a duel which kills off the wrong man (George Brent) and generally behaves like a hellion The yellow fever epidemic gives her the chance of redemption gives the film some memorable scenes.

"Jezebel" excels in capturing a period in southern life, in the caliber of supporting performances—by Fonda, Brent, Fay Bainter, Donald Crisp and Richard Cromwell in particular—and in consistent attention-holding, due in large part to William Wyler's potent direction and (of course) to the star.

"Condemned Women" is one of these pictures intended as a Class B program-filler that emerged as something better.

Undertaking to picture life in a women's prison where old strong-arm discipline is giving way to modern psychiatric understanding, the film succeeds admirably until romance intrudes. Louis Hayward as the young prison doctor revives Inmate Sally Eilers' interest in life. Persuaded that marriage to an ex-convict would ruin his career, Sally takes part in an escape plot which results in the death of a matron and a little convict (Anne Shirley) who is taking a rap for her student lover. Recaptured Sally looks set for a longer stretch until Louis forces revelation that she did it all for love, which seems to settle everything for a happy ending. Despite this unreality, the picture has much tenseness and excitement, drab realism in its prison life, and a sensitive performance by Miss Eilers that might lead her back from the "B's." Lew Landers directed.

"The First Hundred Years" (Robert Montgomery, Virginia Bruce, Warren William, Binnie Barnes) is a light comedy tidbit about a much-in-love husband and wife and their conflicting careers.

Montgomery's role is more sympathetic than he usually draws, Miss Bruce troupes as well as decorates, and Alan Dinehart's comedy lawyer stands out with the work of Williams and Miss Barnes.

HOLDS CZECHS WOULD FIGHT TO BITTER END

Foreign Policy Association Finds German Invasion Would Be Dangerous.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Czechoslovakia, backed by a well-equipped army capable of offering staunch resistance, undoubtedly would fight to the bitter end if confronted by a show of armed force similar to that which precipitated the Austro-German Anschluss, the foreign policy association predicts.

Any ambitions of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, projecting over the Czech-German border into the home of Sudetic Germans in Czechoslovakia the association warned, are fraught with extreme danger.

Surveying the explosive issues of the of the Sudetic Germans, and Czechoslovakia's position "surrounded on three sides by a powerful and aggressive nation of 72,000,000 people," the report found that "Czechoslovakia seems to be caught in a vise."

The survey was written by Karl Falk, with the aid of the Foreign Policy Association's research staff. Falk, student of central Europe, at present is working on a book on Upper Silesia.

Critical Stage.

The report said that relations between the German minority and Prague, as well as between Prague and Berlin are so strained that the western powers fear that any provocative incident in the home of the Sudetic Germans might precipitate war in central Europe."

"A policy of repression at present," the report said, "would involve the danger of straining to the breaking point the relations between the Czech state and the German minority, as well as between Czechoslovakia and the third Reich. Further Sudetic incidents might easily become the "provocation leading Germany to a step that would prove disastrous for all."

Falk found that to preserve the European balance of power, Britain and France will have to participate in an adjustment giving Germany as much economic penetration into central Europe as is compatible with maintenance of independence and integrity of the Reich's eastern neighbors.

BACK PLEA FOR MORE POLICE

Amima Club, K. of C. Support Chief Bates' Proposal In Resolutions to Council.

Two Mansfield organizations joined today in supporting Police Chief Meade K. Bates' request for additional men for the police department.

Resolutions forwarded to city council by the Amima club and the Knights of Columbus stressed the need for more patrolmen as Bates mapped plans for the creation of a traffic squad within the department.

The Amima club resolution on file with Council Clerk William J. Beer said in part that "the Mansfield police department is undermanned to the point where effectiveness is materially reduced." It also pointed out the need of additional men to cope with "the traffic situation which needs constant and increasing attention."

"It is our belief that the proposal for augmenting the law enforcement body should be given every consideration by council," the K. of C. resolution said in endorsing the proposal.

Bates said that should council grant his request that his plans call for the immediate creation of a traffic squad of six men under a superior officer to "clean up" Mansfield's traffic situation.

If the additional patrolmen are placed at the disposal of the department, he proposes to set up a motorcycle detail of two men each on all three shifts.

LOST LADY

By GEORGE E. HOLT
(Copyright 1938)

CHAPTER XXVII.

Gregorio of the One-Ear kent a night long vigil across the street from the Hotel de las Rosas, much to his discomfort. But orders were orders with Red Vasquez and his followers And Vasquez saw no need for he himself to do guard duty when lesser men were at his command.

His orders had been simple

"If the Senorita Carmen leaves the hotel during the night," Vasquez had said, "Bring her to me. I do not think she will leave during the night, but early in the morning. She will try to reach San Diego. She will want a taxi. See to that, also."

Vasquez's surmise had been correct. Gegorio's guard duty had brought no results during the night. And as dawn was breaking, the rest of the gang leader's prophecy came true.

The night clerk at the hotel came to the sidewalk. He looked about, then appeared a taxicab standing at the curb near the hotel. The chauffeur was asleep in his seat.

At the night clerk's touch the fellow awakened, yawned, blinked.

"A fare to the line," explained the clerk, and returned to the hotel.

The taxi drove up to the entrance. As it stopped, Sue came out of the hotel, closely wrapped in her black shawl She looked about. Beside the taxi driver and a rough fellow curled up asleep in a doorway across the street, there was no human being in sight. The girl breathed a sigh of relief.

"To the Line," she said, and entered the cab.

"Si senorita," assented the driver, a pimply youth with shifty eyes

He started the motor and swung the car in a semicircle across the broad street, thus coming to the curb precisely in front of where the sleeping man lay.

But that man was sleeping no longer He arose swiftly and as the cab scraped the curb, snatched the door open, and piled into the seat beside the now terrified Sue.

"Gregorio!" gasped Sue

"Gregorio — at your service, senorita," replied that one, grinning. "Did you think that your friends were so unworthy as to fail to keep watch over you? Never. Wherefore I have guarded your hotel all this night—and now I am your escort"

The car lurched as it turned off the main street

"Where—are you taking me?" asked Sue. She did not need to be told that she was not going to the Line, nor that the taxi had been planted where she would take it. Nor that the driver had his instructions from Gregorio.

"You are to be the guest—the honored guest—of a very nice lady," Gregorio answered. "You will like her...I am sure of that ...Oh, yes, very sure."

Sue quivered with fear and anger—the latter predominating That she had been such a fool as to fall into such a trap! That she had not realized Vasquez had his spies everywhere. That she had not instantly become suspicious when she saw the man sleeping in the doorway across the street from the hotel. Obviously she had been recognized immediately upon her arrival, the night before. Or, perhaps, the clerk at the hotel was one of Vasquez's spies. What a fool she had been! What a fool!

Still, what else could she have done, she asked herself. She had to leave La Luz; the border gates were closed, so she could not reach San Diego that night; and she had to stay somewhere. Where, then, but Tjuana—the only place within fifty miles where she could find lodging?

No, she decided, she had done the only possible thing. She had failed—and now she must take the consequences of failure.

In a few minutes the taxi drew up before a substantial looking house on the outskirts of the town. A very respectable looking house A house which might have been the home of any well-to-do Mexican or American resident of Tjuana. But when Sue perceived it, she uttered a cry:

"Red Vasquez's house!" she gasped.

"Yes, senorita," assented Gregorio politely. "Where you are to be an honored guest. Will you be pleased to enter?"

Sue got out of the car, looked about, seeking some one to whom she could call for aid if she should try to escape now But not a soul was in sight in the gray dawn-lit street, not a fellow-being upon whose ears her cry for help could fall.

Gregorio's hand upon her arm, she passed through a gate in the picket fence which surrounded the house and its neat green lawn, went up the short graveled walk, and found a door opening before her.

The door swung wide, Gregorio pushed her gently forward into the opening, and Red Vasquez stood grinning at her in the hallway

"Good morning, Senorita Carmen," he said "You are very welcome Be pleased to enter The house is yours"

Gregorio closed the door and returned to the taxi, leaving them facing each other in the murky hallway.

"What," demanded Sue, "Is the meaning of this, Vasquez?"

"Do not get angry, little one," returned the man. "Is it an insult to you to ask you to become my mother's guest for a few days ...or a few weeks?"

"Your mother!" exclaimed Sue, suspiciously.

"But certainly, senorita," replied Vasquez. "With your permission, I will summon her. But be seated. Be seated."

As Sue sat down, Vasquez went down the hall and shouted, "Oye, madre mio."

And returned almost instantly with a terrible looking old woman in a dirty loose dress, hair in curl papers, a face which told all too plainly of the character of its possessor. Sue leaped to her feet. Never had she seen a harder looking woman

But Vasquez, grinning malignly, was saying:

"I have the honor, dear mother, to present your guest, the Senorita Carmen. I am sure you will take very good care of her, will you not?"

"Leave that to me, hombre," rasped the woman, looking with hard eyes upon the girl

"Your mother!" exclaimed Sue, shuddering.

"But yes, senorita," said Vasquez, still grinning. "Is it not permitted everyone to have a mother? True I had to adopt this one, and it is also true that she is not very beautiful I have not known her for long so I cannot vouch for her past But I do know that she is dependable Very dependable. She has a fear—a respect for the Island of Santa Maria. The grin faded. He looked at Sue with menacing eyes. "I do not think that you will cease to be her honored guest until—until she permits you to depart. Eh, mama?" he turned to the old woman.

"Leave that also to me, hombre," she said. And then, to Sue, "Come with me."

* * *

Resistance was worse than useless; it would be by disgusting force and mistreatment that she was taken whither they wanted her to go. So, with head high, returning the old woman stare for stare, Sue went with her, and presently found herself in an upstairs chamber which had evidently been prepared for her, for across the single window iron bars were stretched.

The old woman was a hag of few words.

"Your room, she snapped. Then turned, closed the door, and locked it on the outside....

Below stairs Red Vasquez smoked many cigarets and raised many a glass of tequila as he pondered upon this unexpected change in the situation—a change all in his favor, it seemed to him

Don't Leave Husband Until Sure

By VIRGINIA LEE

ANOTHER young wife signs herself UNHAPPY. She is merely 16, and has a small baby. Her story is that she worked with two boys—the one she married who was 28, and the younger one, whom she loves, and who was 21. Her mother hated the younger and liked the older one, and although the girl loved the younger her mother practically forced her into marrying the older.

After only a year of marriage she is miserable; respects and admires her husband, but doesn't love or get along with him very well. She wants to know what I advise. "I have tried to be the wife I ought to be for the baby's sake," she writes, "but things are becoming unbearable."

Why did your mother dislike the young man you love so much, Unhappy? If her detestation is well founded you might now be as unhappy with him as you are with the other. Ever think of that? I presume not, as you are so in love with the boy.

Why any mother would force her little girl of 15 into marriage, I cannot imagine. Maybe because she thought if she didn't virtually insist upon you marrying this older man whom she liked, you would run away with the younger.

Now, will you do one thing, dear, if you have the chance? Do you see this boy you love much? He evidently doesn't make love to you now since you are married, I surmise from what you say. Try to look at him and all his actions with an unprejudiced mind, as a stranger might, not as one who loves him. He may be all you think him, of course, but I just want you to be sure before you leave a good husband and find yourself "out of the frying pan and into the fire."

You shouldn's have been allowed to marry, of course, but now that you are and have a baby, I just want you to be very sure your husband is the wrong man before you break up your home. I don't know what legal steps would have to be taken to dissolve the marriage, and the baby complicates things. I presume your husband won't want to give it up and neither will you. How does he feel about your marriage? Does he regard it as a failure? Don't do anything in a hurry. That is all I ask.

BANANA SALAD — Shred or cut lettuce or cabbage on salad plates. Cut bananas in half crosswise, then each half in half lengthwise, or you can leave the halves whole if you wish, one for each serving. Pour over some of your favorite dressing — mayonnaise, cooked or French dressing, and sprinkle any kind of chopped nuts on top—peanuts will do.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

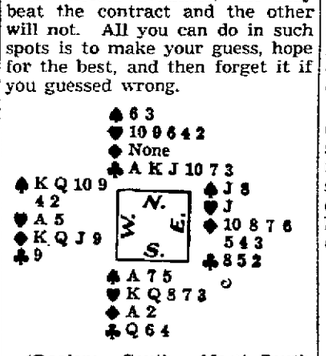
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T KICK YOURSELF

There is no sense in upbraiding yourself just because you made an unlucky lead. The greatest expert the world ever saw will have to admit that some lead problems are pure guesswork. With two even choices available, one may beat the contract and the other will not. All you can do in such spots is to make your guess, hope for the best, and then forget it if you guessed wrong.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.

South's opening bid on this deal was 1-Heart. West overcalled with 1-Spade. North jumped to 4-Hearts and South to 6-Hearts, which West doubled.

Holding the trump A and what seemed like a sure trick in either spades or diamonds, West felt the hand warranted a double. He led the diamond K, on which the spade 3 was discarded from dummy and the trick won with the A. After that the opponents had no chance to pick up a trick outside of the high trump.

What a different story had West elected to lead the spade K! His surprise lead of the diamond K he felt sure would be more likely to set up a trick, in view of the bidding. It just happened that the lead he selected was the wrong one.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

Jealousy Causes Child Problems

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Head Department Parent Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

It seems to me that at least a fifth of the many mothers who write me reveal jealousy problems, though few of them recognize jealousy. Some will deny it when it is pointed out. Most, indeed, will say there can't be any jealousy, for "we treat our children impartially and this child dearly loves the baby."

Many a letter describing one child, usually the older, tells of another child "wholly opposite, who gives me no trouble at all." If the problem child is stubborn or crabbed, or timid, or non-social, or refuses to help about the house, or is slow at school, the other is said to be co-operative, or cheery, or courageous, or sociable, or eager to help, or very successful at school.

Reverts to Bad Habits.

Many an elder child from two to five, long since trained well in toilet habits, will, on the arrival of a new baby, revert to wetting or soiling his clothes. So also the child long content at night will, under like conditions, revert to bed wetting. Temper tantrums, whining and crying easily, showing off, not eating well or sleeping well, are often named for the child obviously suffering from jealousy. Often jealousy will cause the child not only to be quarrelsome at home but with other children also, to be a tattler, too. Y et the jealous child has not the least understanding of the cause or his discomfiture or ill behavior.

Not enough merely to prepare the older child for the coming of the new baby. He needs more attention than he usually gets from the father after the baby has arrived. He must, in order to be happy, feel he is still loved and wanted and worthwhile. He must enjoy successes.

The more he can be led to do for the baby, of course, the better he will feel toward it. Then as both grow older he must feel that he is treated as older than the baby, with more privileges and responsibilities. Most of all, his rights and possessions should be respected and protected. Teach the younger not to disturb nor appropriate the older's things. Serve as policeman, if necessary. Don't make the older give up to the younger. Persuade him occasionally to do so, and praise him generously when he does.

Children differ widely, of course, to begin with, but because of jealousy these differences may multiply. Whereas we do not want the "better" child to be less co-operative, or sociable, or to be duller at school, we can do much to help the other child find satisfactions in various directions so as to compensate, to some degree at least, for those virtues he lacks w h i c h the "better" child has.

We can never hope to cure a child of jealousy; yet we can reduce it greatly, and we can avert many of t h e tragedies incident thereto. We just don't know how much a child may suffer fro jealousy, even when we think him to be ornerist. And jealousies begun in early childhood may continue for a lifetime.

A small window may be made to look larger by setting the curtain rods beyond the casing on each side and using draperies of a material heavy enough so that casings will not be seen through material.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

MINDFUL OF Mary's laughing injunction to "put on something which will slay 'em, mow 'em down in rows," and also of the fact that although we were leaving the hotel in the afternoon we would not be returning to it, or be able to dress again before our dinner and the play, I put on my prettiest combination costume, a dress of moss green, with bodice cut and lace trimmed in such fashion that it was suitable for any semi-formal evening function, while a trig—and trick—little coat covered a multitude of sartorial sins. As I adjusted my hat over my hair which, fortunately, still retains what Dicky calls its "Titian hue," my mirror told me that with the judicious aid of cosmetics, I had been able to remove all trace of the emotional storm through which I had passed. I wondered if it were a good mirror or if my "imagination was working overtime," in Dicky's parlance, when I fancied that it told me I also had removed years in the process of prinking. But when Mary came into the room, dressed in a gown of burnt orange with metallic trimming and a saucy little coat —a combination costume which effectively framed her exotic beauty—she enthusiastically confirmed my mirror's verdict.

"What have you done to yourself?" she demanded "You look about 25. I'd better keep a wary eye out, orthe Hollywood scouts will nab you and carry you off before my very eyes. Then where will my good time be?"

I made her an elaborate bok.

"Gramercy for the greens, Darling!" I told her. "But if you waste much more time talking, our window shopping tour will be decidedly limited."

"Right you are!" she agreed, taking a last glimpse of herself in the mirror, and nodding satisfiedly —as well she might—at what she saw. "Come on! Let's go!"

Will Take Keys.

"You're looking like a poet's dream, yourself," I told her, as with purses and keys in hand we waited for the elevator.

"The dreams of some poets are nightmares," she reminded me pertly, and then, as the elevator came to a stop, she asked quickly: "Will you leave the keys at the desk, or shall I?"

A half hour before the question would have elicited a panic-stricken demand that she leave the keys, giving me the chance to get out of the hotel without facing possible furtive, curious glances from the desk employes.

But my newly-made resolution to "put on a show," steeled me, and I held out my hand for the keys.

"I'll leave them," I said, "if you'll have the doorman get a taxi. I forgot to order one by telephone."

"I'll do that little thing," she said blithely, and I was conscious of a glance of admiration, quickly concealed, which she sent me at my decision. The memory of it helped me immeasurably during the ordeal—and I never have faced a much more grueling one— of going up to the desk with the keys in my hand and facing the room clerk.

Message for Nurse.

"Will you please give some messages for me to possible callers?" I asked casually. "We do not expect to return until late tonight."

"Certainly, Mrs. Graham," the desk clerk, a man I never had seen before, replied, and I knew that the "grpevine" of the hotel was working

"When Miss Whitlock calls, please say to her that we will not return before midnight, and that she is to get the keys and come in if she returns before us. To anyone else, just say that we are out and will not return until late."

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, March 26.

Propitious planetary intervention may make this day a day of decisive progress and prosperity. Developments may come as reward for diligent work and sound judgment, as well as the preferment of favors of employers, superiors or those in power. It is probable that there may be surprises in this direction, and the financial status may be greatly increased by some very clever coups or bold manipulation.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a progressive, prosperous and happy year, with a surprising development coming as a reward of merit from employers or those in authority, or as a tribute to some very clever management of financial opportunities. Promotion, favors and recognition from influential places may contribute to a stabilization of the fortunes.

A child born on this day may be steady, industrious and dependable; also adaptable, quick-witted and ambitious. It should be favored by those in power and achieve a place of importance and financial prosperity early in life, possibly through some surprising adventure or daring coup.

Household Helps.

Broom holders, small hooks, and screws help to keep the household cleaning equipment in good working order. Hang up brooms, mops, dusters, and cleaning brushes by attaching screws to the handle.

Fill the large tray in the mechanical refrigerator with canned fruit. When frozen, the fruit can be served as an appetizer, on lettuce for salad, or with cookies for desert. Very refreshing and easy to prepare.

My Neighbor Says:

Tuberous rooted begonias are among the very few flowers which will grow thriftily without any direct sunlight There is nothing finer for window-boxes on the north side of the house or in shady spots around the house or in the garden borders. The flowers are very large and appear in many charming colors. If bulbs are started in April in boxes of earth in the colder sections or outside in places where there is no danger of frost, they will attain blooming size in a few weeks and bloom for many months. It is important to remember that the top of the bulb is concave or indented; otherwise it may be planted bottom up, as it has an entirely different appearance from most bulbs.

The moment the ground can be worked, sweet peas may be planted. Select a sunny spot where loam is good. Apply a thick layer of well-rotted manure and work in thoroughly. Dig drills about eight to ten inches apart and from four to five inches deep. Scatter seeds in drills generously but not too thick.

Diced pineapple added to cabbage salad gives it a delicious flavor.

COAST FLOOD HITS PRODUCE

Markets Report Shortage of California Head, Butter Lettuce, and Celery.

Real dandelions—not the hot-house variety, but the small wild ones that grow plentifully in Ohio fields—made their appearance on the markets this week and are promised in abundance for Saturday food shoppers.

Mansfield is directly affected by the California flood this week in its shortage of head lettuce and butter lettuce, as well as California celery. This produce was in the fields when the floods swept over southern California and a large part of the crop was destroyed. Head lettuce, accordingly, is not only scarcer right now, but is somewhat higher in price.

One of the newer items on the market this week is radishes. Three varieties are offered, the little round breakfast radishes that have been on the market all winter, and the white icicles and long early red radishes.

Okra (for soup) makes its season appearance this week. Peas are well filled out, and green and yellow beans have been crisp and tender. Leaf lettuce is plentiful. Practically all leafy and green vegetables are slightly cheaper, such as spinach, cabbage, broccoli, mustard greens, endive, celery cabbage, and similar vegetables.

Cucumbers are of good quality, and sun-ripened tomatoes from the south are firm and juicy, as the result of a mild, wet winter. Italian squash and small summer squash also is on the week-end list.

There is little change in fruits this week, except that as the season advances strawberries come in richer color and flavor.

SUES FOR STATE COMPENSATION

Mansfielder Seeks $1,160, Right to Participate in Payments.

A suit to collect $1,160 from the Industrial Commission of Ohio and for the right to participate in state compensation payments had been filed in common pleas court today by John W. Rusk, 418 Sherman place.

In his petition Rusk states he was injured when struck by an automobile while employed by the Mansfield City Fuel company as manager, but was denied compensation on the grounds that the industrial commission had no jurisdiction over his injuries.

As a result of the injuries, he was confined to his home for four months, he contends. The amount asked represents loss of salary resulting from the accident, his petition says.

ESCAPES JAIL

Ex-Inmate, Wanted as Parole Violator, Flees in W. Va.

A former inmate of the Mansfield reformatory, wanted by the state welfare department as a parole violator, had escaped today from a West Virginia jail where he had been held in custody.

The fugitive is Charles Nutter, 30, who sawed his way out of a Webster county, W. Va., jail, Associated Press dispatches said.

In a communication to the sheriff of Summit county where Nutter had been sentenced for robbery, Dock Cutlip, Webster county sheriff wrote: "We are sorry to say Mr. Nutter has escaped again last night. We can't say when he will be apprehended again. Regret this is the second time he has sawed his way out of jail."

Summit county authorities were somewhat puzzled by the communication, the dispatches said. They quoted the county prosecutor as saying his office had no record of Nutter's parole.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said reformatory records showed that Nutter had been paroled Feb. 1, 1934 after serving 28 months of a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbery.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

BOOKS ON MUSIC HEAD LIBRARY'S NEW VOLUMES

Additions Include Works on Opera, Symphony, Lives of Noted Composers.

Books on music take a prominent place among the additions to the Mansfield Public Library shelves this week-end and are especially timely in view of the Metropolitan Opera season in Cleveland next month.

Among the new music volumes are "Metropolitan Book of Opera," "Book of the Symphony," "Chamber Music of Brahms." "Music: A Science and an Art," "Masters of Russian Music," and books on Berlioz, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Mozart and Schubert.

Among the other non-fiction is "R. F. D." by Charles Allen Smart, a picture of life on a farm in southern Ohio in the early part of this decade. The author, who was an editor, a school teacher and a writer, lived in New York City, but inherited the small farm from relatives, and decided to move onto it and make it pay.

"The Summing Up" by Somerset Maugham, contains observations on life and literature which the novelist wanted to put down on paper because he was "tired of having them hover about in his soul". "Goliath: The March of Fascism" by Borgese outlines the development of the Italian mind before Fascism. He considers Fascism more than an economic phenomenon—an outburst of emotionalism and pseudo intellectualism.

"The Little Things in Life" by Barnet Sure is an interesting book on nutrition, vitamins, mineral elements and ductless gland, told in non-technical terms.

Other Non-Fiction.

Besides these, non-fiction this week at the library includes: "50 Famous Trials" by Raby; "Persons in Hiding", Hoover; "To the Quen's Taste", Hilles; "Modern Publicity, 1937-1938"; "Sixteenth Annual of Advertising Art"; "Fun at Home" by Marran; "Modern Building", Behrendt; "Chinese Shadow Shows", Wimsatt; "Kings of the Court", Potter; "Matthews-Northrup New International Atlas and Illustrated Gazeteer."

An unusual theme and story will be found in "The Gardener Who Saw God", by Edward James, which is among the new fiction. This is the story of a young head gardener at a great English estate, who hears a Beethoven symphony for the first time, and stirred by deep emotion, ponders on what life might and should be. Through clear eyes and with unsophisticated mind he sees the futility of much of modern society.

Mme. Lotta Lehman, famous singer, has written a novel on the life of a great artist, "Eternal Flight". Elisabeth and Annemarie Werner, twin sisters, one a famous dancer, passionate, unstable, and the other, talented but self-sacrificing.

Louise Redfield Peattie's new short novel, "A Child In Her Arms", tells of a young childless couple who befriended a young widow and cares for her at the birth of her child. The conflict comes when the childless wife wants to adopt the widow's baby and the latter is determined to keep it herself. The husband blunders when he tries to please both women.

Other fiction this week includes "The Fortune of Bridget Malone" by Lowndes; "G Stands for Gun". Nye; "Is A Ship Burning?" by Sale; and "Missing Link", Wells.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Boys and girls around 10 years old, like pioneer stories, just as much as their older brothers and sisters, but, up to now, there have not been many titles to choose from. They will certainly welcome "Hester & Timothy, Pioneers" by Ruth and Richard Holberg.

Late in 1835, the Clark family moved from Chicago to Milwaukie (as it was then spelled) and made a new home for themselves. Building their house, going to school, visiting the Indian village, made life an exciting affair, in those days. The many illustrations, some colored, others in soft greys, make this a most attractive book.

Other pioneer stories, for this age, are: "Little House On the Prairie;" "Smiling Hill Farm;" "Pioneer Twins," and "Story of Pioneers. And Their Children And Some Pioneer Things You Can Make."

Bowling Holds Spotlight On City Sports Stage

Moose, Legion Teams Share Alleys This Week-End; Lodge Club Rolls In A. B. C. Tonight.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BOWLING is holding the spotlight in the city at present. The regular league season is rapidly fading, and virtually all of the schedules will be concluded within a few weeks, but tournaments will keep the teams in action for sometime to come.

The Moose national tournament comes to a close at the Meder Recreation alleys this week-end but another major event will get under way before the final standings of the Moose lodge bombardment are posted.

The American Legian state tournament opens in the city this week-end and it will continue for three weeks.

Mike Meder and his forces will have just time enough to dust the drives for Tuesday night for the inaugural matches in the City tournament, which has been revived after a lapse of many years.

Home Bowlers Busy.

In addition to participating in these events, Mansfield bowlers are preparing for other tournaments. The A. B. C. and Inter-City tournaments, now in progress in Chicago and Alliance, respectively, will draw a number of teams.

The first of five Mansfield teams entered in the Chicago classic is the Moose entry, which is scheduled to attack the uprights late tonight. The Miller Oldsmobiles, Metcalf Pure Oils and two Leiderkranz club teams will bowl in Chicago, April 8.

Sunday, April 16, will mark the first invasion of Mansfield teams to Alliance. The South Plant Hot Mills, Liederkranz club, Willis Billiards, Mansfield Printers, Heilman-Canfield Oils, Metcalf Pure Oils and Miller Oldsmobiles will bowl there on that date, with the Q Billiards, Mansfield Rugs and Roma Lunches competing the following day.

Only four teams are scheduled to roll in the Legion tournament this week, with full shifts holding down the alleys the following two week-ends.

The opening matches in the Legion event will get under way on the downstairs alleys at 7 p. m., with James V. Suhr of Cleveland, state commander, throwing the first ball.

The Mansfield No. 2 and Montpelier will bowl Saturday, with two other teams, Zanesville and Cheviot, rolling Sunday.

Approximately 30 teams will compete in the Legion tournament, according to W. S. Young, secretary of the event

Resumes Saturday.

The Moose tournament will be resumed at 1 p. m. Saturday, with the final shift scheduled at 6 p. m. Sunday.

Teams to roll this week-end hail from Saginaw, Mich., Batavia, Ill., South Bend, Ind., Louisville, Ky., Barberton, Orrville, Massillon, Wooster, Fostoria and Delaware

A number of Mansfielders will roll their doubles and singles Sunday.

BOB'S WILD, BUT HOLDS A'S AT BAY

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(U.P.)—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' youthful right-handed ace, still has the problem of control to master, but otherwise the youngster today proved he had benefited from the careful treatment Manager Oscar Vitt has given him this spring.

Feller has worked in only two of the Indians' exhibition games. Last Sunday he toiled four rounds against the New York Giants and yesterday went the same distance as the Tribe downed the Philadelphia Athletics 9 to 5.

In the eight innings Feller has worked this spring he has not given up a run.

The Athletics, winners of seven out of their last eight starts, were able to secure only one hit off the Iowa farmboy yesterday. The only times Feller was in trouble came as a result of his wildness. The youngster walked six men. Four of the Athletics went down on strikes.

In contrast to his work of last year when Feller depended almost entirely on his blinding fast ball, the youngster yesterday made a sharp-breaking curve the best pitch in his stock.

When Feller left the box the Indians had a commanding 7 to 0 lead, but Johnny Allen couldn't hold it. He gave up four runs in the fifth and one in the eighth. Cleveland's last two runs came in the seventh.

Roy Weatherly, Bruce Campbell and Hal Trosky each secured two hits to lead the Cleveland attack.

The Indians were to play the Athletics again today.

REFORMATORY RIPS MT. VERNON, 50-37

The Inmates of Mansfield Reformatory ran unmolested over the Pine Ridge club of Mt. Vernon, 50 to 37, at the Reformatory last night. Led by Moore, the Inmates, after trailing, 20 to 18, at the half, broke loose to grab a slight lead in the third frame and then climaxed their scoring with 22 points in the last chapter to win going away. Moore set the individual pace with 22 points.

SOX WIN, McNAIR SIGNS, SO CRONIN'S HAPPY

SARASOTA, Fla.—(INS)—Pleased with his team's 7-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals, Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox found new cause for rejoicing today in the news that Eric McNair, holdout second baseman, had yielded to the club's salary terms and would report Sunday.

KENYON POLOISTS DRAW BYE IN FIRST ROUND

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Kenyon college polo team held a first round bye today in the intercollegiate division of the eastern indoor polo championships starting tomorrow, and is scheduled to meet the winner of the Harvard-Pennsylvania Military college match.

Hartnett No Match For Radio Script.

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—Charles (Gabby) Hartnett, 225 pounds of bone and muscle on a baseball field, made his first—and probably his only—attempt to become a radio artist last night. He was to play opposite Fanny Brice in a skit scheduled for release by the National Broadcasting company. But four minutes before he was to whisper, "I will kiss you a thousand times," Hartnett struck out.

He tossed aside his script sheet and said:

"It's no use, fellows. I can't go through with it."

He decided he wasn't meant to be a lover.

THREE TIED FOR LEAD

PINEHURST, N. C.—(INS)—A wide-open affair loomed today as 61 of the nation's top-notch golfers teed off in the 36-hole final grind of the annual north and south open golf championship. A total of nine crack shotmakers were so closely grouped around the top that anything can happen.

Three players—Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa.; Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., and Ed Dudley, Augusta, Ga.—were in a tie at 141 at the end of the second round of the 72-hole medal play event. Nelson scored a par 72 yesterday, Ghezzi a 73, five strokes above his sizzling 68 in the initial round, and Dudley carded a 72.

Next in line with 142's were Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, L. I.; Denny Shute, P. G. A. champion of Boston, and E. J. "Dutch" Harrison, Little Rock.

All-Stars Top Hedges Club

The All Star team of the Grade School league edged Hedges, champion, 11 to 10, at Senior high yesterday. Hedges took an 8 to 5 lead at the half and went into the final frame sporting a 10 to 7 advantage, but the All Stars, paced by Brooks of Bushnell, blanked the champions while tallying four points to eke out the victory.

Sports Open Bid For Tourney Title

Yuncker Club Meets Lorain In First Round Game In Willard Tonight.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE undefeated Yuncker Sports return to action today when they face the Thew Shovels of Lorain on the Willard high hardwood in a Class A opening round tilt of the annual Willard Independent basketball tournament.

While the Sports are tackling the Shovels, the Ashland Merchants meet Birmingham Firemen, defending champions, in another important first round affair.

Seek 16th Victory.

The Sports will be seeking their 16th straight and, if they dispose of the Lorain club, will return to action at 6 p. m. Saturday against the touted Akron O'Neill outfit, in a semi-final game. The winner of the Ashland-Birmingham melee plays the Worthington Clothiers of Elyria in the other semi-final.

The winners of the semi-finals will meet for the championship at 9 p. m. Saturday. The winners of the semi-finals in the Class B division play at 8 p. m.

Class B games today, starting at 5 p. m.: Willard Brunswick Grills vs. New London, Berlin Heights vs. Townsend, South Amherst vs. Ashland Y. M. C. A., Chatfield vs. Bloomville, East Akron vs. Lima Westinghouse, Cleveland vs. Akron Quality Service, Garrett, Ind., vs. Barberton, Galion vs. Ravenna Eagles.

Mansfield Advances.

The Reece Opticals of Mansfield advanced last night in Class B by defeating the Galion North Electrics. The score was not available. The Opticals return to action against Vermilion at 8:15 a. m. Saturday.

The Plymouth Oils, including a number of Richland county coaches, was dropped by the Chatfield Indians, 29 to 21, in another first round Class B game last night. Another Mansfield entry, Benny's Hi Notes, bowed to Lorain.

In the other Class B games last night, Bloomville defeated Galion Quality Coals, Berlin Heights defeated Rittman, Townsend defeated Willard Square Deals, Lima Cigars defeated Cleveland, Lakeside defeated Avon, Vermillion defeated Shelby Cycles and Wadsworth defeated Roundhead.

Play will be continuous Saturday from 8:15 a. m. until the championships are determined.

MILLER'S BUFFALO TEAM GAINS THIRD PLACE

CHICAGO—(AP)—Buffalo produced the only newcomer to the ABC standings yesterday when the Lang's Beer and Ale five, featuring Joe Miller, former national match game champion, tumbled 3,020 pins to take third place. A few strikes in the tenth frame of their final game and the Langs would have taken over the leadership.

OL' LEFTY TELLS ALL

LEFTY . . . fishing.

By DILLON GRAHAM

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP)—Robert Moses Grove, the loquacious conversationalist of Lonaconing, Md., was cornered for a balls-and-strikes interview while standing knee deep in a country creek near Sarasota.

The Boston southpaw hurler had snuck away from an afternoon drill of the Red Sox and was casting his reel in search of bass in a pretty little fishing hole away out in the backwoods.

"Lefty, if memory doesn't betray me, you're about the oldest pitcher in the American league, you and Earl Whitehill and Ted Lyons?"

"Yep, that's right."

"It's 38, isn't it?"

"Yep."

"As I recall it you topped both of those other old men. How many games did you win?"

"Seventeen."

"Well, you're getting ready to start your 19th season in baseball. How does the old flipper feel?"

"Great."

"The boys tell me you've got more pep and ginger than you've shown in years."

"Yep."

"How many games do you figure you'll win this year?"

"Wouldn't know."

"Boston has a number of rookie pitchers in camp. Do any of them look good to you?"

"Some."

"Do you think Vosmik will strengthen the Red Sox?"

"Yep."

"Jimmy Foxx looks like he's in the pink."

"Surely does."

It's harder to extract an interview from Lefty than it is to get a base hit off him. He's the strong silent type, friendly but not given to wordiness.

There are silver streaks in Lefty's hair now. He isn't as fast as he used to be but he still has good stuff on the ball and a cunning brain a-working on the mound.

The Red Sox expect to go places this season and they're counting on Grove pushing back the Old Man with the Scythe for another year or two, anyway.

NOLAN OBTAINS TALABER FOR HUNGARIAN GRUNTER

Joe Magyar, Hungarian light-heavyweight, is in a great state of mind today. Joe went to Tim Nolan, Quality club matchmaker, this week with a demand that his record in Mansfield be rewarded by something in the way of a high-class match.

Holder of a draw with Sterling Davis and numbering a long list of victims in his "won column" the Hungarian is deserving of a shot at one of the better light-heavyweights.

Joe has induced Nolan to sign the Chicago sensation, Frankie Talaber. Magyar will meet Talaber in the top event of a card which will be staged in the Armory Monday.

Nolan announced again that his special inducement to feminine fans will continue. Women accompanied by escorts will be admitted free.

HOLDS ITALIAN ARMY EUROPE'S BEST PREPARED

Writer Says Duce Could Rally 2,000,000 Troops, 3,000 Planes In Short Order.

EDITOR'S NOTE —Stewart Brown, manager of the Rome bureau of the United Press, reports today in another dispatch on the armed strength of the principal powers

By STEWART BROWN
(UP Staff Correspondent)

ROME—If war should be declared today, Premier Mussolini would have 2 000 000 men on the march by Sunday night and would darken the skies of Europe with 3,000 combat planes

Italy may not be the strongest military power in Europe, but she undoubtedly is the most alert. She had a dress rehearsal for the next war when she invaded Ethiopia She would try to swing into the offensive quickly and deal a knockout blow before slower nations could mobilize Know Bugle's Meaning.

Every Italian knows what is expected of him when the bugles blow. Every able-bodied man employed on public transportation systems would go to the colors and women would supplant them Army reserves would stream out of barber shops, factories and stores Women virtually would take over the industrial and commercial life of Italy With incredible speed, Il Duce would put 7 000,000 men under arms, and 450,000 tons of fighting craft would be streaming into the Mediterranean on errands of destruction.

Italy thinks plans and builds in terms of war Any person who erects an office building or a dwelling is required to include in his plans an underground shelter for protection in event of air raids The people now are eating bread that contains from 10 to 20 per cent corn or rice in preparation for the day when the wheat supply may be reduced by an enemy blockade

Italians, disciplined by 15 years of fascism, make these sacrifices willingly

More than any other major power in Europe, Italy has been able to test her military theories in the finest of actual combat The Ethiopian war was a test of supply, aviation and the mechanized forces Foreign observers estimate Mussolini has sent 2 000 planes to Spain to aid rebel generalissimo Francisco Franco

Has 5,000 Planes.

Conservative observers say that Italy now has 5 000 planes 2 000 of which are transports and auxiliary ships The air ministry has 5,300 pilots in active service and 9,000 more trained fliers could be called out on a day's notice By 1941 according to trustworthy information Mussolini expects to have 5,000 combat planes in service most of them high-speed, long range bombers

Particular attention is being paid to submarines, apparently on the theory that they are formidable weapons in the calm Mediterranean She has 120 in service already and by 1941 will have 170

The nation now has 600,000 regular troops under arms in Italy and the colonies In addition, there are 200,000 armed militiamen available Back of that is a vast trained reserve of 5 500 000 and by calling up fresh classes of recruits Mussolini could add another 1,000 000 to his legions

During the current financial year will place under construction 260,000 tons of fighting craft It will include two super dreadnaughts of 35 000 tons each which for a time at least probably will be the most powerful fighting ships in the world

Italy's regular defense budget for the current fiscal year is $305,000,000 but the government would not hesitate to call for a special appropriation if needed

STARTS 68th SEASON

ASHLEY, Ind —(UP)— Rehearsals for the opening of the 68th season of the Ginnivan Stock company, rated the oldest tent stock company in the United States are scheduled to start April 18 Frank Ginnivan manager, said that the troupe would open May 2 — the 29th opening here

How Hitler Got There—

Heads Roll, Personal Liberty Crushed As One-Time Nazi Agitator Becomes Der Fuehrer

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

When Adolf Hitler's march on Berlin fizzled in 1923, the Nazi chieftan decided to talk himself into power

But you can't talk yourself into anything from a cell and that's where Hitler found himself when his 1923 coup failed.

3. This is the last of three articles which bring into focus the guideposts to Hitler's personality.

So, the ex-corporal devoted himself to the next best thing — the writing of his autobiography. He called the work "Mein Kampf"—"My Battle" or "My Fight"

It was a constant repetition of political themes he had been pounding at Germans since the war

"Get up, German workers, you're not whipped," was the general idea Hatred of Russia and the Jews ran through the 700-odd pages German superiority was the keynote Heads Will Roll.

The book was an outpouring of Hitler's passionate love for the fatherland. Nothing had stemmed it, not even a baptism of fire from German regular army troops Even on the witness stand he had insisted on preaching his bold plan for German domination of Central Europe He had predicted that heads would roll when he assumed absolute power

It all seemed so ludicrous. And yet millions of Germans were only too eager to listen. German authorities of the day must have sensed that, for Hitler was paroled within a year Then began his final successful assault on the republic

None Explain It All.

Biographers, news correspondents, medical men, friends and enemies all have tried to explain the hocus-pocus that made Hitler the supreme law in Germany. None has succeeded yet all seem to catch a part of the idea

For instance, a psychologist says Hitler has a mother love complex brought on by his father's tyranny, and his own early failures in art This interpreter sees Hitler's unswerving purpose to dominate the Germanic people as an effort to prove to mother Hitler's memory that her son was the master of his destiny

Der Fuehrer In a Mellow Mood.

It is public knowledge that a few of his intimate followers have been covered with the mud of sex scandal One such man, Ernst Roehm, was the only person who dared call Hitler by his first name

Yet his enemies produce no evidence that Hitler himself is anything but normal. On occasion he certainly has shown himself brave, resolute, and equipped with the powers of genius

Hitler's personal and public life are a succession of contradictions He remains a bachelor while preaching that Germans should marry and produce more stalwart sons In his early life he preferred idleness yet he has rebuilt Germany on the preachment that work is a glorious adventure, a patriotic duty.

Hitler emerged from Landsberg fortress proud and resourceful and marched straight toward political power Each year he and his followers talked themselves into more seats in the Reichstag until, by 1933 they had the balance of power. Then they deadlocked the law-makers and waited for the inevitable crisis

The Hour Strikes.

When it arrived, and the beloved President von Hindenburg asked Hitler to become chancellor, the Nazi hour had struck Hitler abolished the republic, made the Reichstag a rubber stamp, made the nation into a centralized state. Freedom of speech and the press went by the board, now that they were no longer of use to him

Up sprang the secret police, the organization that paved the way a year or so later for Hitler's purge of enemies within the party. Old pal Roehm was personally arrested by Hitler, taken out and shot At least 77 other persons were done away with.

Hitler was making the heads roll as promised Moreover, he was carrying out some of his pledges to the people Much to the discomfiture of France he repudiated the Versailles treaty German war guilt, and suspended reparation payments

A Success

He militarized the Rhineland, rebuilt and nazified the German army Truly Hitler and Germany were throwing out their chests. They quit the League of Nations, and worked for union with Austrian Germans

Now, an astounded world watches Hitler stride through marching columns and proclaim himself leader of Germany and Austria, a unit of 75 000,000 people

"Success" once said Hitler, "is the only earthly judge of right or wrong"

And Herr Adolf Hitler leader of the German people, has been a success, so far
